CLERIC FLIES TO SEE LINDBERGH

Today

Beans and Fish Cakes.
Jealousy's Cockle Burrs.
Read, and Shudder.
Flying for the Navy.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 28.

CYRUS HERMAN Kotzschmar Curtis has spent his winters here for many years aboard his big yacht Lyndonia. From Miami, he sails in the spring to his place at Camden, Me., near Portland, where he was born, stopping on the way at Philadelphia, New York, Boston, the 38 men that man the yacht kept busy and happy polishing the brass.

President Coolidge asked how much such a yacht costs for upkeep. Mr. Curtis replied:

"It costs me nothing, my great-grandchildren pay for it."

Meaning that he would not leave the great-grandchildren as much money as he would have left without the yacht.

MR. AND MRS. Curtis' luncheon on the Lyndonia yesterday included Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Fuller, who owned the Rockland Gazette, extremely able tri-weekly newspaper. Also Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Shutts. They own the Miami Herald.

Col. Shutts wishes the Miami Evening News would sell out to him. Gov. Cox, who owns the Miami News, wishes Col. Shutt's Miami Herald would sell out to him, so neither will sell out.

CYRUS H. K. CURTIS has nothing to wish for. Nineteen years ago with rare wisdom he turned over his periodical publications to Mr. Lorimer and other associates, saying "Let's see what you can do with them," confining his personal attention to daily newspapers.

Mr. Curtis, thin, very active, will be 82 years old next June.

While guests ate rich and beautiful food concoctions that looked as though they came from a jewelry shop, Mr. Curtis ate Boston baked beans with fish cakes.

THE "HERMAN KOTZSCHMAR" in Mr. Curtis' name is that of a musician who played the organ in the Portland church long ago. He wrote the music for Mr. Curtis' favorite hymn, "Softly Now the Light of Day Fades Upon My Sight Away."

Mr. Curtis' profits this past year are off about eight million dollars, dropping to from twenty to twelve millions, but that means to him nothing at all. If he continues to let the others do the worrying, and troublesome work, while he lives on his yacht, eating beans and fish cakes, that light of day will "not fade softly upon his sight away," for another score of years at least.

JEALOUSY IS infinitely patient in its watching, its plans for confirming its worst suspicions, the ceaseless fury with which it lashes its own hatreds to their climax.

Truly the Bible says:

"Jealousy is cruel as the grave; the coals thereof are coals of fire, which hath a most vehement flame."

A man, accused of murder in Nashville, Tenn., suspected that something was wrong and put cockle burrs on the automobile seat of his neighbor, Edwin Wood. When he found some of these cockle burrs on his wife's coat he killed Edwin Wood, pleaded the "unwritten law." The jury deliberated twenty hours, could not agree.

What but bitter jealousy would suggest that cockle burr idea?

MILWAUKEE PUZZLES you. It is the best governed city in the United States, best in financial condition, with a police force that can't be bribed, and makes criminals so unwelcome that they never come.

That is a tribute to Victor L. Berger, who established the Socialist government under which Milwaukee has kept solvent, accumulated money, discouraged crime and maintained honest government. How in the world do you explain that?

And now, for a good shudder. Milwaukee proposes to establish a municipal bank, one that will pay regular banking interest, let you take out your money whenever you choose, and not blow up.

That's a terrible Bolshevistic suggestion, and the worst of it is that some other bankers can hardly criticize Milwaukee since this country has seen six thousand banks explode with loud reports within a short time and would see more of them collapse if the government which "detests anything like a dole" had not established a special dole fund of two thousand million dollars for corporations only.

IT MAY interest you to know that a good many Americans are depositing money in Canadian banks, where it is working to build up our friends across the northern border.

Again our high-spirited financiers cannot complain, with any good grace, in view of the fact that while we have thousands of bank failures in the United State, NOT ONE BANK HAS FAILED IN CANADA.

It is puzzling, but it is a fact, and therefore should be mentioned.

MIAMI IS a city of airports, greatest flying city of America, although Oakland, Los Angeles and San Diego, Cal., might dispute that.

The writer visited three of the airports Saturday, including the Municipal Airport used as a flying base by the Navy.

On the ground with its propeller roaring and its wheels arranged to draw up inside in flight, its body to reduce air resistance, stood a "Lockhear Altair."

This monoplane, very low with short wings, black striped with gold, looked on the ground

HEAVY SNOW BLOCKADES HIGHWAYS

Woodville Man Found Dead Of Exposure; Poles Down In Homewood; Trains Late

Western Pennsylvania today was freeing itself from the grip of an Easter snowstorm, heaviest of the year, that caused one death; crippled railroad, air and automobile travel, toppled poles, interrupted wire communication and brought prospect of a rise of rivers to a near-flood stage.

More than 200 employes of the State Highway Department with plows attacked the layer of snow and slush on the principal roads, varying from 3½ inches in Allegheny County to eight inches in the mountain district of Westmoreland.

HIGHWAYS BLOCKED

The Pittsburgh Motor Club this afternoon reported the Lincoln, William Penn and National highways impassable over the Allegheny Mountains.

Melting of the heavy snowfall in the upper reaches of the Monongahela will bring a rapid rise in that stream. Forecaster W. S. Hotzman predicted, with a peak stage at the Point of about 22 feet tomorrow, three feet below the flood mark. More snow was forecast for tonight, followed by warmer weather tomorrow.

TRAINS DELAYED

Trains from the east on the Pennsylvania and Baltimore and Ohio railroads were running late because of storm conditions in the mountains. Trains from the west were little hampered, officials said.

At Bettis Field, representatives said there was no flying out of that port last night and that there would be none today east, but that western air travel would be resumed.

The victim of the storm was Andrew Mortoff, 68, an inmate at the County Home at Woog-

CITY ASKS CUT IN LIGHT RATE

City Councilman W. Y. English today asked officials of the Duquesne Light Company to reduce the cost of furnishing light for the city's streets 20 per cent. The request was made at a conference between city officials and officials of the light company in the office of Public Works Director Edward G. Lang.

Joseph McKinley, vice president, and G. W. Ousler, general sales manager of the company, said they would take the request under advisement.

The city pays the light company approximately $800,000 yearly for lighting streets and is about to award a five-year contract.

Those at the conference were Lang, English, McKinley, Ousler, President of Council John S. Herron and Assistant City Solicitor Charles Lang.

Aimee, Movie Actor To Debate Prohibition

LOS ANGELES, March 28.—(INS.)—Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton, the evangelist, and Walter Huston, film actor, were scheduled to debate tonight at Angelus Temple with Mrs. Hutton having the affirmative of the question, "Resolved, That Prohibition is a Success."

Three Judges Sick, Court Cases Lag

With three judges sick, the wheels of justice in Common Pleas Court lagged today as seven sitting judges struggled to keep up with the list of cases. Those ill are Judges Joseph M. Swearingen, James H. Gray and John P. Egan.

Dying Man Executed After Storm's Delay

Snow Breaks Wires At Rockview Penitentiary

HARRISBURG, March 28.—(AP.)—Quincey Wallandz of Philadelphia, whose execution for wife murder was delayed because of lack of power early today, was electrocuted at 9:42 a. m., the Governor's office announced.

The message came to the Governor's office from Warden Stanley Ashe, of the Western Penitentiary at Pittsburgh.

Wire communication with the penitentiary at Rockview, near Bellefonte, was crippled because of a heavy snowstorm.

SNOW BREAKS WIRES

Wallandz was to have been executed at 7 a. m. When the electric chair was about to be tested early in the day, it was found that electric lines into the prison death house had been snapped by the snow.

Wallandz, 24, was convicted in November of shooting his wife, Carrie, Negro, to death, after the failure of an attempted reconciliation.

The execution date was originally set for February 29, but Wallandz was granted an eleventh hour reprieve by Gov. Pinchot.

JUDGE ASKS REPRIEVE

The stay were permitted at the request of President Judge Harry S. McDevitt, of Philadelphia, who learned the condemned man would probably die within a short time from tuberculosis and heart trouble.

Judge McDevitt made another ecort to allow the man he had condemned to die a natural death, but Gov. Pinchot refused a second reprieve, despite an appeal by the governor of a Cuban state, because he said the Board of Pardons had declined to recommend clemency. Wallandz' father was a Cuban.

COUNCIL BANS TAG 'FIXING'

City Council today passed the new traffic code ordinance by which it is expected the city will save upwards of $200,000 a year from tag fixing.

The new ordinance, presented by the Better Traffic Committee and now in effect in 100 cities, is expected to eliminate all "fixes." Issuance of tags is placed in the hands of the Controller. He is to make monthly reports to Council and to the Mayor, showing the number of tags issued and what happened to them in Traffic Court. Heretofore police issued the tags and a recent checkup showed that more than 200,000 tags issued were not accounted for.

Tags will be issued by the Controller through the police and each officer will be required to make an accounting for the tags. These will be checked against Traffic Court disposition.

BUDGET ROW MUST END —GARNER

Speaker Prepared to Take Floor in Demand for Taxes to Preserve Credit

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Speaker John N. Garner is preparing to take the floor of the House, if necessary, with an appeal to members to vote sufficient taxes to balance the federal budget and preserve the credit of the nation.

This was learned authoritatively today following a conference between the Speaker and newspapermen in which he reiterated his oft-repeated declaration that the Treasury deficit "must be ended."

Although the Speaker declined to comment on reports that he would make his first speech from the floor this session on the tax bill, he disclosed a determination to place the financial affairs of the nation on a sound basis.

'MUST PAY EXPENSES'

In this position, Garner joined President Hoover, Secretary of the Treasury Mills and leaders of both parties in Congress. He said:

"It is my view that the budget must be balanced. I have constantly stated that the running expenses of the government will have to be paid.

"If you gentlemen remember when I first returned to Washington November 10 I said that the budget must be balanced.

"The first meeting of the Democratic Policy Committee, composed of 10 senators and 10 representatives, unanimously agreed to this policy.

"It has come to a point now where the worst kind of additional taxes are better than no taxes at all.

SEES PERIL TO DOLLAR

"I advocated the sales tax because I thought it was the easiest way to balance the budget, as a temporary measure.

Autogyro Inventor Flies Wingless Plane

LONDON, March 28.—(INS.)—A successful flight in a wingless airplane was made recently by Juan de la Civera, noted Spanish inventor of the autogyro, according to the Sunday Express.

The new plane, now in a shed near Southampton, is reported to be small enough to be housed in an ordinary motor car garage. It is understood to be able to rise vertically from a rooftop.

Injured Escaping Blaze With Rope

PHILADELPHIA, March 28.—(AP.)—While hanging by ropes from a third story window, a man and his wife were burned today by fire which routed 10 persons from their sleep in a rooming house at 428 South street. The man, Harry Gore, 33, was rescued by firemen, but his wife, Evelyn, fell 20 feet to the ground when the rope burned.

RAILROAD LOAN STIRS SENATE

WASHINGTON, March 28.—(AP.)—Trouble threatened today in the Senate over the recent $12,800,000 loan to the Missouri-Pacific Railroad Company by the Reconstruction Corporation.

Senator Borah (Rep.), Idaho, called attention to the loan and the "reluctance" of the Interstate Commerce Commission to approve it. He said he had information that "every form of pressure within reason and decency was used to bring about this loan."

Chairman Couzens, of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, said he was investigating the loan and would discuss it tomorrow.

The Interstate Commerce Commission, in approving the loan, said it did so only at the insistence of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and protested that part of the loan was to be used in taking up a private loan by the road from New York bankers.

Congress Is Proceeding to Intensify the Depression, Says William R. Hearst

(From Saturday's Washington Herald)

FELLOW CITIZENS, you think you have experienced a depression; but you have NOT. You have only seen the beginning of it.

Our estimable representatives in Congress assembled are going to fix things so that the country will experience a REAL depression from now on.

They are going to increase the confiscatory provisions of the income taxes.

Mr. Hoover has been urging the people not to hoard.

The public has been besought to spend money as freely as they can possibly afford.

Those with money have been advised if they have some repairing or building to do to do it NOW and so relieve unemployment.

They have been told if they need any clothing or furnishings or comforts or luxuries of any kind, to buy them NOW and stimulate trade.

We have been asked to turn in the old automobile and buy a new one.

We have been urged to patronize the shops and the theaters, to keep money in circulation and to maintain employment to the best of our means.

MOST OF US have tried to do this, but we can not do it any longer. We have got to save every dollar from now on for the income tax collector, and for the fines and interest and assessments and injustices which he will impose.

We have got to cut down on the butcher and the baker and the candlestick maker.

We will have to use the old automobile and wear the old suits.

We will have to relinquish those pretty things at the shops that we would like to have for ourselves and the family.

We will have to get along with the old house and postpone the painting job for another year or two.

We will have to patch up the old furniture and dispense with all luxuries and even comforts.

We will have to give up some amusements and abandon that trip or vacation we had been intending to take with the "folks," and we will have TO SAVE EVERY DOLLAR TO GIVE TO GOVERNMENT.

Congress has made saving not only a habit, but a necessity.

Congress has made hoarding COMPULSORY.

Smart boys, those radical Congressmen of ours!

They are going to have the country lift itself right out of its troubles by its boot straps.

Clever chaps, those desciples of Lenin and Stalin in the government at Washington!

They are going to tax the country into prosperity.

They are going to make the country wealthy by stopping the spending of money.

They are going to improve business by decreasing business.

They are going to relieve unemployment by relieving those that are now employed of their jobs.

They are going to give all the money to the government, so that the only people who will have any jobs will be government employes.

IF AFTER the tax collectors turn your pockets inside out, nobody has any money to build with, how are the building trades going to keep employed?

If nobody has any money left to spend at the shops, how are the clerks and sales people to keep employed?

If the shops cut down orders from the factories, how are the factory hands going to keep their jobs?

If the factories cut down the orders for raw materials, how are the farmers going to dispose of their products?

If nobody has any money to buy automobiles, what is to become of the automobile industry and its employes?

If nobody has any money to patronize the theaters, what is to become of the amusement enterprises and their employes?

If nobody does any business nor does any advertising, what is to become of the publishing business and its employes?

And if no buying is done, and no business is done, and no profits are made, how in hallelujah is

BRAVES FOG AIDING HUNT FOR BABY

Hopes for Safety of Child Raised After Secret Trip Of Norfolk 'Go-Between'

BULLETIN.

PHILADELPHIA, March 28.—(AP.)—Dean H. Dobson-Peacock, one of the three Norfolk men seeking to intervene in the Lindbergh kidnaping case, was said to have arrived at the Philadelphia Navy Yard at noon today and left immediately for Trenton, N. J.

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT
International News Service.

NORFOLK, Va., March 28.—Negotiating for the return of the kidnaped Lindbergh baby, Dean H. Dobson-Peacock of Christ Episcopal Church, one of three intermediaries, hopped off today for Hopewell, N. J., to confer with Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

The dean left secretly in a Navy land plane from the naval air base here. Fog, rain and poor visibility endangered the flight.

His departure was not made known until John Hughes Curtis, boat builder and fellow negotiator, announced it several hours later. Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage, retired, is the third emissary.

NEWS AWAITS RETURN

Curtis said that Dean Dobson-Peacock planned to return to Norfolk by tonight if weather conditions did not disrupt the flying schedule. Curtis said:

"Dr. Dobson-Peacock left here in a Navy plane at about 11 a. m. for Hopewell to confer with Col. Lindbergh.

"I do not know at what specific field he will land.

"He is trying to renew and complete negotiations started some time ago and broken off.

NEW TOYS WAIT LINDY BABY

BOSTON, March 28.—(INS.)—A line of wooden soldiers stood erect, awaiting the "boom boom" of the top cannon to mow them down.

Beside them lay a drum, with sticks silently waiting a baby's hand to beat a rat-tat-tat. Over in a corner sat a lonesome Teddy bear.

There were other toys, too, brought all the way from Turkey and Italy, to thrill the heart of the world's most famous baby, Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr.

Mrs. Agnes Morrow Scandrett, grandaunt of "Lindy," Jr., who brought the toys, mused over the playthings today, wondering when baby hands would shoot the cannon and beat the drum.

Arriving here from Constantinople aboard the liner Exarch, Mrs. Scandrett, sister of the late Senator Dwight W. Morrow and widow of Attorney Richard Scandrett, of Pittsburgh, spent last night with friends in Franklin, waiting for the steamer to resume her journey to New York late today or tomorrow.

Mrs. Scandrett declared she was "ashamed" of the country in which her little grandnephew was kidnaped. She said:

"I don't believe that in any other nation a child could be kidnaped out of its crib at night and kept from its parents as long as Anne's baby has been missing."

Portes Gil Attacked In Mexican Parade

MEXICO CITY, March 28.—(INS.)—Former President Portes Gil, appearing in a political parade here today, was attacked by a man with a heavy club. Portes Gil dodged escaping injury, and his assailant was arrested.

Rival factions rioted for an hour while the parade was in progress and troops finally were called out.

AL SMITH WINS FIRST PLACE ON PENNSYLVANIA BALLOT

DAVIS, PARKER ALSO DRAW TOP SPOTS

Stadtfeld in Second Place Among Superior Court Judgeship Candidates

HARRISBURG, March 28.—(AP.) Alfred E. Smith, of New York, today scored a victory over Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, by drawing first position on the Pennsylvania Democratic ballot for the primary election April 26.

Walter Scott, drawing for Smith, drew number 258 and Warren Van Dyke, president of the Roosevelt for President League of Pennsylvania, drew number 261 for Roosevelt. They are the only candidates for Democratic presidential nomination.

The Pennsylvania law requires candidates for delegate to the national conventions to state whether they will abide by the choice of the electorate but there is no penalty for failure of a delegate to vote for the candidate receiving the highest vote in the preferential balloting.

DAVIS IN FIRST PLACE

United States Senator James J. Davis drew first place on the Republican ballot for the nomination for United States Senator. Smedley D. Butler, candidate endorsed by Gov. Pinchot, drew second place and William S. Adams, third candidate, was third. Lawrence H. Rupp, of Altoona, drew first place on the Democratic ballot and Lewis C. Cassidy, of Philadelphia, was second.

On the Republican Presidential ballot former United States Senator Joseph R. Grundy, of Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association, is the only candidate.

STADTFELD SECOND

Position of other candidates follows:

Auditor General: Republican, Frank P. B. Thomson, Frank M. Clemens, Frank F. Balcomb, and Ralph F. Flinn. Democrat, Socialist and Prohibition, no contest.

Judge of the Superior Court: Republican, William M. Parker, Joseph Stadtfeld, Arthur H. James, Albert D. MacDade, Albert G. Rothermel and Robert S. Gawthrop. Democratic, Robert A. Henderson, George F. Douglas and George H. McWherter. Prohibition, Ira G. Kast and S. W. Bierer.

Nye and Cutting Will Oppose Hoover

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP.)—An additional group of states selecting convention delegates and presidential candidates this week shaped attention of political observers today with anti-Hoover utterances of two western Republican senators.

Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota, who is definitely identified with the independent group of the Senate, said that conventions remaining as they are he was not going to support the Hoover administration in the November elections.

REPUBLICANS DESERT

Nye himself must vote to be returned at that time.

The recent primaries in his state were conspicuous for the number of Republicans voting on the Democratic lists.

Senator Bronson Cutting, of New Mexico, that state's Republican National Committeeman for his state again expressed himself against renomination of President Hoover but promised to "support the interests of the Republican party as long as I can conscientiously do so."

Missouri Democratic convention today brings favorable note to the list of presidential candidates former Senator James A. Reed that state's long-time favorite son. The delegation of 36 is to be instructed for him.

MAINE FOR ROOSEVELT

Maine chooses its Democratic delegates tomorrow with the line-up calling for an uninstructed group though it is reported for Franklin D. Roosevelt. The Republican delegates from Maine will favor Hoover.

In Iowa also tomorrow a delegation of 26 is to be chosen with the issue whether it shall be uninstructed or whether the Roosevelt forces insist on them. Gov. Murray, of Oklahoma, has had friends seeking the Iowa vote, however.

Despondent, Girl Drives Over Cliff

RICHMOND, Va., March 28 (INS.)—Despondent over a love affair, Miss Rose Kroma, 18, drove her automobile off a precipice in a suicide attempt she told police. The car dropped 60 feet but Miss Kroma was only slightly injured.

Passengers, Cargo Removed From Ship

MARSEILLES, France, March 28.—(AP.)—Passengers and cargo were taken off the cable steamship Providence here. The vessel ran aground in the Greek archipelago on Friday, but line officials said she would be refloated soon.

But the House did not care for that kind of a tax.

"Unless the budget is balanced foreign exchange will depreciate and I don't know what would happen. You will find the dollar would be affected in foreign exchange."

While a sub-committee of the Ways and Means Committee was struggling to produce taxes to replace the $595,000,00 contained in the original sales tax proposal the tariff issue bobbed up again.

After the House had voted excise taxes on foreign oils and coal Democratic leaders with Republican aid hailed a tariff drive on Saturday.

The American Farm Bureau Federation made public a program designed to raise $856,000,000 in taxes which includes tariff-taxes on many farm products.

Secretary of the Treasury Mills was in conference with the Ways and Means sub-committee this morning and when he left the committee room he was asked if sentiment was turning toward the original Mellon-Mills plan for heavy taxes on certain industries and lowering income tax exemptions. Mills replied:

"It seems so."

ville, whose body was found at noon in an isolated portion of the grounds. Death was reported at the morgue as due to exposure. Mortoff, whose home is at Bridgeville, had been an inmate for nearly two months. He is believed to have lost his way in the storm while returning from a visit to Bridgeville.

Thirteen poles of the Postal company in Braddock Township were either felled or snapped off by the wind and weight of snow.

The cross-arm of one felled pole at Brinton and Fairfax roads fell on the porch roof of the bungalow of L. B. Wise. There was little damage.

Overlaced by sleet and snow-laden wires, six poles of the Postal Telegraph Company toppled over in Kelly street, near Homewood avenue, shortly after 6 o'clock this morning. Crews of the telegraph company and Duquesne Light Company rushed to the scene to repair the damage.

The poles also carried lines of the Pittsburgh fire alarm and police signal systems. Both services were reported temporarily out of service.

According to a witness, one of the poles snapped off at the base and the force of its fall dislodged the others. The wires of the Duquesne Light Company, which are also attached to poles, prevented the poles from falling against and seriously damaging residences on the street.

BUSES DELAYED

Local terminals reported buses seriously delayed by storms, and in many places passengers were transferred to trains when the storm rendered the roads impassable. One woman was injured when she was thrown against her seat when the bus in which she was riding butted sideways in the storm.

The steady rain, which fell nearly all day yesterday, changed to a wet snow early last night, and later turned to sleet as the mercury dipped to the freezing point.

temporarily as a result of publicity.

"I tried to re-establish them when I was away last Saturday. "Dr. Dobson-Peacock hopes to complete the reopening of the negotiations."

Curtis added that he would not know the result of the minister's discussions with Lindbergh until Dr. Dobson-Peacock returned to Norfolk.

He pointed out that a telephone leak had been discovered in the 21-minute conversation via phone between himself and Col. Lindbergh a week ago and that as a result the three emissaries had decided not to use the telephone again.

HOPES STRENGTHENED

Curtis said that he and Admiral Burrage had decided that one representative would accomplish as much as three and that Dr. Dobson-Peacock was therefore delegated to confer with the noted father of the missing baby.

Under normal flying conditions the minister should reach the vicinity of Hopewell in about three hours. Due to the low ceiling and bad weather, however, it was not expected that he would reach his destination before four hours or even longer.

The flight to Hopewell of a member of the negotiating trio of prominent Norfolk citizens strengthened the hope that the Lindbergh infant might be homeward bound sometime this week as expressed by Dean Dobson-Peacock.

Curtis, on his return from a mysterious mission over the week-end, also radiated optimism.

'SEMI-FINAL STAGE'

He declared his belief that the negotiations were in "the semi-final stage."

Whether the purported kidnapers with whom the Lindbergh representatives were supposed to be dealing were on land or sea remained undisclosed.

In his mystery mission Curtis was said to have used a plane.

When the Norfolk trio was first reported to be bartering with the kidnapers last week, the story went out that the baby-stealers were on a yacht out in Chesapeake Bay.

Meanwhile, Coast Guard patrols continued to watch out for all suspicious craft in the region.

Troopers Concentrate On Hunt for Gangsters

By QUENTIN REYNOLDS
International News Service.

TRENTON, N. J., March 28.—Ignoring the seemingly significant developments at Norfolk, Va., where intermediaries were reported to be in contact with the kidnapers of the Lindbergh baby, Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, in his official statement to the press today emphasized the efforts of the police to locate Harry Fleischer, reputed leader of the "Purple Gang" of Detroit, and Abie Wagner, of New York's Lower East Side.

Schwarzkopf, who is superintendent of the New Jersey state police, has in previous statements described Fleischer and Wagner as "known kidnapers," he said.

"The search for Harry Fleischer and Abie Wagner is being continued. Many police departments are working independently on this and have not reported their progress to us."

RACKETEERS' PARLEY

Rumors were current in Trenton today that big city racketeers from coast to coast were gathering here to discuss means of returning the kidnaped baby to his parents. It was reported the racketeers are under "orders" from Al Capone who is in jail in Chicago to confer with his lieutenant, Ted Newberry, when the latter sets a time.

In a telephone conversation with International News Service today, the Very Rev. H. Dobson-Peacock, dean of Christ Episcopal Church, Norfolk, expressed strong hopes of completing negotiations with the kidnapers soon.

He was called soon after John Hughes Curtis, shipbuilder, returned to Norfolk from a secret trip, reputedly to make another contact with the abductors, Dr. Dobson-Peacock said.

"I am very optimistic Charles August Lindbergh, Jr., will be in our hands, or that of his parents, soon.

"It may be a couple of days, or even sooner, but I am certain the baby will be returned safe."

BALKS RANSOM QUIZ

He refused to answer questions regarding the ransom, if any was demanded by the kidnapers, who since the appearance of the Norfolk negotiators are believed to be holding the baby on a boat in some inlet of Chesapeake Bay.

Although the Lindberghs themselves in some quarters were reported highly elated over the prospects of the Norfolk lead, police remained skeptical of its value, at least in official bulletins. Capt. J. J. Lamb, of the New Jersey state police, said:

"Col. Lindbergh has no knowledge of developments at Norfolk. As previously stated, he does not believe the information obtained at Norfolk is of specific significance in the case."

The Lindberghs spent Easter Sunday without receiving a single visitor. Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, Mrs. Lindbergh's mother, and Col. and Mrs. Henry Breckinridge spent the day at the Hopewell estate.

Nurse Grilled in Boston On Talk of Lindy Baby

BOSTON, Mass., March 28.—(INS.)—Police activities in the Lindbergh baby kidnaping extended in several directions here today.

Miss Betty Gruenler, 37, a nurse whom Newark (N. J.) police had asked authorities here to question, walked into police headquarters and volunteered the assertion that she could find the baby "if I had the dough."

Under questioning she admitted knowing John B. (War Bird) Marston, war-time aviator, Newark police had said Marston and the nurse had knowledge of a kidnaping plot seven years ago in which $8,000 was to be asked for ransom of a man held captive on a boat.

Miss Gruenler said she had known Marston over a period of five years, but had not seen him recently. She denied she ever had been known as "Betty Gow," as New Jersey police reported. Following several hours of questioning Miss Gruenler was released. Police said they were convinced she could give no information about the kidnaping.

Radio Star Returns Home for Week And Visits

Vacation days crowded with happy moments at home with his mother and father in Squirrel Hill, rehearsals at the Stanley Theater, where he opens a week's engagement Friday and visits with school chums and old friends were ahead of Dave Rubinoff as he arrived here today.

Learning that Rudy Vallee was in town, the popular Pittsburgh violinist of the radio made a brief stop at the crooner's suite in the William Penn Hotel to say hello before speeding to his home. Mr. and Mrs. Ruben Rubinoff's home at 5600 Forbes street reflected their own joy at having their famous son home for a visit.

Rubinoff emphasized that this first engagement in his home town since rising to musical fame means much to him. He said:

"I've never tried harder to give a good program than I'll endeavor here."

Then he confided that Rudy was deeply in love with his wife, the former Fay Webb. Rubinoff said he owed everything to Rudy for the opportunity the orchestra leader brought him in introducing his violin art to the radio world.

The band of holdup men who invaded the confectionery store of Joseph Valis, at 123 South Twenty-first street, this morning cut the telephone wires and then fled in an automobile.

Valis told police he was alone when the four men entered. All had guns. One held him against the wall. One searched the cash register and another removed money from his pockets. The fourth man severed the telephone wires. They obtained about $70, Valis told police.

AYRES SCORES GLASS BILL AS BANK MENACE

Proposed Restrictions Held Likely to Prolong 'Worst' Depression, Ohio Man Says

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Passage of the Glass bill, designed to restrict banks from indulging in stock speculation, would "prolong and intensify the depression," Leonard P. Ayres, vice president of the Cleveland Trust Company, told the Senate Banking and Currency Committee today.

The only two provisions of the bill which might be "helpful" are those providing extension of branch banking, he said, adding:

"The avowed purpose of the bill is to prevent the diversion of funds into speculative operations. In attempting to do this, its authors have tried to erect barriers in all channels through which bank funds might move into speculation, and they have succeeded in devising a whole series of obstacles against business expansion."

WEAKER BANKS

"The bill would weaken the banks by tying up hundreds of millions of their funds in non-productive uses.

"One provision takes about $150,000,000 out of solvent banks to liquidate closed banks. This requires the well run and conservatively managed banks to bear the burden of the insolvent banks that were poorly or even dishonestly run. Certainly stockholders would bring suits to enjoin banks from using their funds that way, and the whole matter would be tied up in lengthy litigation.

"The proposed restrictions on farm loans and real estate loans would cause a severe deflation.

DEFENDS MARKETS

"Most of the bill is aimed against long-term securities, both stocks and bonds. It attempts to make the security business an outlaw business, so far as banking is concerned. For a hundred years back every recovery from every business depression in this country has been started by upturns in the security markets, financed by bank credit. It is not wise to choose the worst period of the worst depression we have ever experienced as the time to disrupt those parts of our banking machinery on which we most directly rely for the financing of reconstruction."

Continuing, Col. Ayres said "business is still on the decline and that the cessation of business during the present depression is unparalleled in our history." He contended the depression was only half over, pointing out that recovery is always slower than a decline, and that at least 2½ more years would elapse before business reaches what economists would term "normal."

PINCHOT OPENS BANK PROBE

HARRISBURG, March 28.—(AP.)—Gov. Gifford Pinchot opens an inquiry today into an action of State Treasurer Edward Martin which is alleged to have cost the depositors of closed banks $3,000,000.

The action was to invoke the commonwealth's right to the deposits in closed banks and obtain full payment before any claims of other depositors were met, rather than to take its place with the other depositors and call upon surety companies which bonded the deposit to make up any loss.

Martin last night defended his act with the assertion that the bonding companies would have cancelled their bonds on all the other state deposits if he declined to exercise the state's preferential right. Martin said he feared the bond cancellation would have caused runs on sound banks with greater distress to depositors.

Critics of Martin contend the threat to cancel the bonds was a bluff and that the surety companies were prevented by law from taking such action.

Ex-Mayor, Three Others Jailed 3 Years

DETROIT, March 28.—(AP.)—Rudolph G. Tenerowicz, who resigned last week as Mayor of Hamtramck, Detroit suburb, and three others, two of them former city officials, today were sentenced to three and one-half to five years in prison following conviction 10 days ago on charges of conspiracy to protect vice.

2-Year-Old Holds Mother Prisoner in Bedroom

Two-year-old Dicky Horst caused consternation in his home, 650 Shade avenue, Bellevue, today, by locking his mother, Mrs. H. J. Horst in a bedroom, keeping her prisoner for 45 minutes. It was necessary to call police to open the door to free her.

Mrs. Horst was cleaning the bedroom and Dicky was playing in the hallway. Suddenly she heard the door close and the key turn in the lock. She called and her answer was a shrill, little laugh from the hallway. The mother pounded and shook the door, threatened, pleaded and finally offered him anything from a box of candy to a new bicycle.

Finally Dicky tried to turn the key but could only get it partway. Mrs. Horst called from the bedroom window to her neighbor, Mrs. H. E. Streiner. Doors and windows in the Horst home were locked and Mrs. Streiner could not get in. Mrs. Streiner then called a policeman, who finally forced a window lock with a penknife and then opened the bedroom door.

When Mrs. Horst emerged from the room she found her son, sitting on the floor, his face smeared with her best lipstick. She said:

"I was too excited to even shake him."

SEWICKLEY VETERAN'S DEATH LINKED TO BLAST, FIRE

FIRE MARSHAL, SLEUTHS PROBE EXPLOSION

Man's Body Found on Dump Near Scene of Blaze; Marks On Head, Body Mysterious

Believing there is a connection between the death of John Sauro, 38, Sewickley war veteran, whose body was found on a dump in Aleppo Township, and the fire which destroyed the home of his neighbor, Natale Trunzo, 44, during the absence of the Trunzo family, Chief County Detective George Murran and Fire Marshal Thomas Pfarr are co-operating in the investigation.

Abandoning the theory Sauro died accidentally, Chief Murren has assigned Detective Philip Goldberg to press his inquiry for possible evidence that might indicate murder. Sauro lived at 902 Dixon street. Immediately in the rear of his home was the residence of Trunzo, facing on Nevin street.

BLAST CAUSES FIRE

According to deputy coroners who investigated the death of Sauro, the veteran died early Sunday. About the same time the Trunzo home was destroyed by a fire after an explosion, which rocked the district. Pfarr declared the blast was caused by powder and gasoline, and he is holding a portion of fuse believed to have been placed by those desiring to destroy the dwelling.

Pfarr declared firemen also reported finding three gasoline-soaked mattresses on beds in the home. Trunzo, his wife and four children were spending Easter in Youngstown when the fire was discovered. Pfarr communicated with Youngstown police today and was informed Trunzo was returning today. Pfarr said he would question him.

UNUSUAL SCARS

Dr. T. R. Helmbold, Coroner's physician, who performed an autopsy on Sauro, declared death was due to a fractured skull. There were also several stab wounds on the head. These cuts were unusual, the report stated, inasmuch as they formed a double cross in two places.

Morgue attaches believe such lacerations might be the brand of a secret society or gang with a grievance against the veteran.

Until September, Sauro was caretaker at the Allegheny Country Club. Police in Sewickley and those who knew him declared he bore a good reputation. He left home Saturday night and when he failed to return yesterday, Angelo Duva, a boarder in the home, began a search and found the body.

The Truth About Destitution

Sometimes — oftentimes — truth is shocking.

And that is why, when men—and women—discussed destitution in Allegheny County, they told or repeated but part of the real story.

Concentrate on the picture portrayed above. That picture, drawn by Milan Petrovits, well known Pittsburgh artist, reveals the true state of affairs in one home in this community.

To get the completed picture, multiply this scene twenty-eight thousand times. Only then will you begin to get a true portrayal of the effects of unemployment in Allegheny County.

One hundred dollars, split up into three equal monthly payments of thirty-three dollars will put food on the empty shelves in one home.

IRISH REPUBLIC HOPES AIDED OVER EASTER

Lack of Violence Features Independence Rallies; Support Won in England

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, March 28.—(AP.)—President Eamon De Valera's government found itself fortified today, after one of the most peaceful, but demonstrative Easter weekends in a dozen years, to go ahead with the plan to abolish the oath of allegiance to King George.

In demonstrations yesterday thousands of men and women, members of the Republican army and other technically illegal organizations, sounded a call for an Irish republic. They supported De Valera's plan to abolish the oath and the land annuities, and added that this was only part of the way they would go along the road to independence.

LABOR BACKS FREE STATE

In England, where the Irish question promised to be taken up in Parliament immediately, reports said the Free State government would be backed by the Independent Labor party. A dispatch from Blackpool, where the party held its annual conference, quoted George Buchanan, Independent Labor member of Parliament, as saying he and his colleague, James Maxton, would support De Valera's plan.

Processions in commemoration of the Easter revolt of 1916 were held throughout Ireland yesterday. Those who took part were unarmed, however, and the Free State Army was confined to barracks. The men of the "Republican Army" marched silently in Dublin.

At the graves of their comrades who fell in the revolt 16 years ago they reiterated their resolve to set up a republic, smash the Anglo-Irish treaty and remove British interests from Ireland.

'ENGLAND ONLY ENEMY'

At Cavan, where the procession was half a mile long, Maude Gonne McBridge, "Irish Joan of Arc," declared in an address that:

"De Valera is making a great stand against England, our only enemy in the world."

Armed police kept peace throughout Northern Ireland, where many Republican demonstrations also were held. At St. Mary's graveyard at Newry, County Down, where trouble was expected, Malachi Quinn, noted Ulster Republican, announced that "owing to the presence of the armed soldiers of England" there would be no oration.

At Londonderry police occupied the cemetery from midnight on. A crowd of 500 Republicans gathered in the rear of a church, however, an address was made by one of the leaders and prayers were said for the dead.

A crowd of 1,000 gathered before the locked gates of the great Catholic Cemetery at Belfast, knelt in the roadway and recited the Rosary.

NEW FIGHTING NEAR SHANGHAI PERILS TRUCE

Machine Gun Encounters Grow in Intensity, While Envoys Stay Deadlocked

By DIXON HOSTE
International News Service

SHANGHAI, March 28.—While the Sino-Japanese peace conference is deadlocked skirmishing between the rival armies is spreading along the front west and northwest of Shanghai.

A machine gun engagement which opened Saturday night continued today. The Chinese blamed the Japanese and announced that 20 Nipponese soldiers had been killed.

Fu Te-Chen, mayor of the native city of Shanghai, told International News Service this afternoon that the Japanese have landed new troops in the vicinity of Liuho and are completing a strong defense line extending from Nanziang through Maloh and Kating to Laotang.

EXCHANGE SHOTS

Japanese and Chinese outposts are constantly exchanging shots in the neighborhood of Huangtu, Anting, Chukachao and Fangtai. Each side accuses the other of starting the firing and violating the truce supposed to be in effect while the peace parleys are on.

The situation at Anting is particularly serious and residents have become panicky. Several hundred Chinese attempted to flee to Shanghai, but Japanese sentries refused to permit them to cross their lines unless they were vouched for by the Red Cross and transported in Red Cross trucks.

Meanwhile, the sub-committee to consider the withdrawal of Japanese troops submitted a report of its week-end deliberations to the full Sino-Japanese peace conference today, but truce remained as intangible as ever.

Meeting again in the British Consulate, the delegates were understood to have been told that China remained firm in her demand that the Japanese withdraw to the International Settlement area, while the Japanese military leaders contended their army was too large for this.

Japanese Airmen Bomb Rebels in Manchuria

CHANGCHUN, Manchuria, March 28.—(AP.)—Japanese military aviators bombed Chinese insurgent concentrations north of Nungan today and the aviators, returning here, reported they believed the Chinese casualties were heavy.

They said they saw a small Japanese force with a contingent of Hsi Hsia's Kirin provincial troops facing an insurgent advance in the Nungan district and they considered it a serious menace to Changchun the capital itself. A portion of Gen. Jiro Tamon's Japanese division at Harbin prepared immediately to proceed to Nungan.

Japanese military intelligence reports indicated the rebel force numbered 7,000, including several units of Hsi Hsia's troops which have gone over to the enemy.

Warrant Out

MRS. MARY A. CHRISTIE

Mrs. Christie, 26, wanted with Ben S. Dickey on Butler-issued warrants charging both with larceny, Dickey with fraudulent conversion. Police were told they left Butler three weeks ago.

AUTO DEALER, WOMAN SOUGHT

BUTLER, Pa., March 28.—State police today are searching for Ben S. Dickey, 51, manager, and Mrs Mary Agnes Christie, 26, bookkeeper, of the Dickey Motor Company, who, it is asserted, disappeared on March 5. A charge of larceny had been preferred before Alderman F. H. Davis against both, and one of fraudulent conversion against Dickey before Alderman E. P. Pfeffer.

Mr. Dickey

The larceny charge was made by R. L. Daugherty, a stockholder of the Dickey company, while the fraudulent conversion charge was made by Lee Reed, of Pittsburgh.

Dickey and Mrs. Christie are said to have disappeared with about $500 of the company funds, while the fraudulent conversion charge concerns the sale of an auto taken in trade.

Dickey has a wife and two children. Mrs. Christie is said to have a husband in Michigan. According to Daugherty, the couple left Butler at the same time.

FIRST LADY HAS GIFT FOR EACH EGG ROLLER

Rain Mars Annual Frolic On White House Lawn, But Children Defy Weather

WASHINGTON, March 28.—(AP.)—After a rainy and unpromising start, the White House Easter egg rolling fete became more popular today with Mrs. Hoover joining a throng upon the lawn to distribute small gifts to all the children present.

Although a chill northwest wind whipped the spray of White House fountains for 50 feet, nearly 2,000 children and members of their families trooped across the south lawn after the rain had ceased.

Earlier the First Lady played hostess to about 150 children of Washington officials inside the executive mansion. Surrounded by Easter baskets in the green room she formed a receiving line, hanging a colored egg to each child who passed en route to the refreshment laden tables of the state dining room. One child gave Mrs. Hoover some homemade fudge.

Throughout this ceremony, a small group of hearty children huddled outside near the south portico. Intermittent rain caused cancellation of the first scheduled folk dances on the lawn, but Mrs. Hoover helped stage a minuet in the spacious east room.

With the first lady's appearance on the south portico, a crowd gathered magically. In a brief address she said she was sorry all could not have been invited inside the White House for the festivities there. Then, descending the broad steps she formed a new receiving line, handing more colored eggs to the children who filed by.

Shortly afterward she waved a white lace handkerchief from the portico and called "good-bye" to those below as she returned inside.

WAGNER URGES U. S. TO BUILD

WASHINGTON, March 28.—(INS.)—A new drive for unemployment relief was launched in the Senate today by Senator Wagner (Dem.), of New York, who sponsored a bill designed to force Congress into completing its 1926 public building program during the coming year.

Completion of the program at this time, said Wagner, would give profitable employment to hundreds of thousands of men, spur industrial activity generally, increase freight returns of railroads and tend to bring back prosperity. He pointed out that work on many hundreds of projects, included in the 1926 program, has been postponed indefinitely, because Congress failed to authorize or appropriate the necessary funds.

Coast Guard Rescues Ship Caught in Gale

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 28.—(AP.)—Caught in a northeast storm off Atlantic City last night, the auxiliary two-masted schooner Emma and Ruth, of Philadelphia, sent up distress flares for a pilot to guide her to a safe anchorage.

A Coast Guard lifeboat crew answered the signals and brought the ship through the channel into the safety of the inlet.

POPE OPPOSED ON MARRIAGE

NEW YORK, March 28.—(INS.)—Sharp disagreement was voiced today by the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America with the pronouncement of the Roman Catholic Church regarding "mixed marriages."

The dictum that requires children of marriages between Catholics and non-Catholics to be brought up in the Catholic faith drew a protest.

A report made by the committee on marriages and the home after several months' study said:

"Where intolerable conditions are imposed by either church, persons contemplating a mixed marriage should be advised not to enter it.

"This committee protests earnestly against the requirement by any church that children of mixed marriages should be pledged to that church."

Among lay members of the committee were Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., George W. Wickersham and Mrs. Robert E. Speer, president of the National Board of the Young Women's Christian Association.

Tragic Dramas Revealed in Homes Where Jobless Eke Out Existence

Patience of Needy Amazes Welfare Organizations

One of Pittsburgh's leaders said the other day that he marveled at the patience of the average family which had been suffering from unemployment for many months. The agencies of the Emergency Association, which have been paying out more than $100,000 a week in direct relief, know that very well. Every one of the 28,000 families under their care is a tragic drama in itself. And only the outlines of that tragedy can be sketched in by the busy social worker in the report she makes of the number of children to be fed and the extent of privation suffered.

For instance, there are the K——'s reported by the Lutheran Inner-Mission Society. The K——'s are worried. The landlord is threatening eviction if they cannot pay the rent, and they cannot. Nor can they buy milk for the children, or send the children to school. Susie has no coat. Billy has no shoes. In the evenings, the family must go to bed when darkness comes or sit around their little coal stove in the gloom. Eventually, after all these sources were exhausted they came to the agency for help. K—— had tried to get work of any kind. He has done everything he can think of. But he has worked only two or three days in each of the last three months. Food and clothing have been supplied and if help continues, the family can be carried until conditions improve. However, the fact that the Emergency Association relief fund is finished places the K——'s squarely up to the community. On March 30 their situation will be desperate.

On the relief lists, the K——'s are listed as Family No. 1504. The number does not matter in the least. Their situation is much like that of the other 27,999. Yet they are an individual problem that other individuals must confront.

There is, for instance the R——'s. Even the family visitor was shocked, and she had seen some bad living conditions. The kitchen was in a terrible condition. The water pipe had frozen and then thawed. The floor was soaked, and water stood in pools. There was no fuel and, therefore, no fire in the stove. Mrs. R—— was ill in bed in the second room, which was being poorly heated by a small gas heater. Worn-out rubber tubes supplied the gas flow from a corner of the room.

R—— was out looking for work. The visiting nurse, who had referred the case to the agency, had just left. Mrs. R—— needs hospitalization, but can not even walk to the hospital, and she has no other way of getting there. She has been in bed for three months. Coal, fuel, and medical care are being supplied as long as funds last. After that——?

JUNIOR doesn't outwear his perambulator, he outgrows it. Mother doesn't outservice her chairs, lamps, rugs, etc., she simply replaces them with new things better adapted to this year's arrangement of her rooms.

And in this process things often relegated to the attic or storeroom retain service and usefulness for other folks that can be converted into cash.

VOTE REGISTRY SUIT STARTED

Charging that registry of 100 voters in the Third District of Shaler Township had been changed from Republican to Democrat, most of them without authority, Attorney Ralph H. Frank today asked the court to correct the registry list prepared by W. D. Elter, register assessor.

The petition was presented in the names of Paul Snyder and Emma Schenk two of those who were said to have been entered Democrats.

Attorney B. B. McGinnis, for Elter, told Judge George V. Moore that Elter had affidavits of 35 of the 100 requesting a change in their party affiliation on the records of the assessor. Judge Moore said he would hold a hearing late today if opportunity presented.

and in flight much like the "Carpenter Bumble Bee," that you may have seen boring holes in the pinewood of a corncrib.

A Wright Cyclone 575 horsepower engine turns the propeller around seventeen hundred times a minute, at cruising speed, two thousand at high speed. Lieut. Com. W. M. Dillon climbed in, put on his parachute, regulations require it, and his assistant, McLaren, third-class machinist's mate, climbed in behind him and put on his parachute.

The giant bumblebee, buzzing more violently, ran down the runway, slowly kicking up the dust, turned around and came back, more rapidly, rose and was gone, at more than two hundred miles an hour.

Leaving Miami at noon, the plane landed in Washington, D. C., at about five fifteen p. m. Lieut. Com. Dillon had improved on the Navy aircraft record for that flight. It was his own record.

WHEN HE left, he held in his hand a slip of paper which told him that rising about six thousand feet in the air, he would find a wind that would push him toward Washington and probably raise the speed about twenty miles an hour. The upper air and its currents at various heights are mapped out precisely every day. We do some things, even if we cannot balance our budget.

IT WAS a pleasure to see that young flier of the American Navy take off with his competent mechanic, and a pleasure to see the young men that run that naval air base for Uncle Sam, Lieut. Joseph B. Lynch, commanding officer; Lieut. Thomas B. Southworth, executive officer; J. Gordon Adams, commander of the Marine aviation division, and their ambitious mechanics.

They have broad shoulders, clear eyes, strong chins, waists that cave in, instead of sticking out.

There are a million more like them in the United States ready to learn flying.

GOVERNOR COOL TO STUDENTS

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 28.—(AP.)—A group of college students protesting against treatment they received from officers who expelled them from the Kentucky coal fields were described by Gov. Henry H. Horton today as "uninvited guests" and were advised by him to avoid Communism.

The Governor received them and heard their protest, but gave them little encouragement as regards any action he might take to discipline the officers they said mistreated them.

As to their complaint that they were mistreated by officers in Claiborne County, Tenn., the Governor said he could call out the state militia only in the event of "a great uprising" and that if they felt they had been treated unjustly they had recourse to court action.

Rob Hall, a student of Columbia University, and spokesman for the group of six that called on the Governor, emphasized the students were not affiliated in any way with Communists and that their mission was a peaceful one.

MOTHER—Watch this Girl . . . This is the Time You Should be on Your Guard

"My back bothers me," she quietly complains . . . "I guess I'll lie down." Have you ever felt this way yourself?

Despondent, Listless Girls

SHE LOOKS despondent, worn-out and depressed. Young girls budding into womanhood often get quiet and wistful. Lassitude overtakes them. They should be watched!

"I have a headache," they quietly complain. "My back bothers me. . . . I guess I'll lie down."

These are the symptoms, mother. And you should be on your guard.

During this "trying time" every young girl needs the helpful benefit of a strengthening medicine like Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Neglect now only invites suffering and unhappiness later on. Pain destroys beauty. Worry ruins the disposition.

That's why so many attractive young women become faded prematurely. The pretty girl of 18 becomes a languid lady at 25.

Suffering isn't natural. Remember that. It may be brave and heroic . . . but it's unnecessary.

When your daughter becomes tired and listless . . . won't you give her Vegetable Compound Tablets . . . just as other mothers do? For over fifty years this medicine has been considered a SAFE and ACCEPTED household remedy.

The very fact that it's been in use a long, long time, gives women extra confidence. They know it must be good . . . or so many women wouldn't take it.

And how true that is! For our records show that 98 out of every 100 women who write us actually report benefit from the strengthening treatment of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of either the tablets or the liquid. Don't postpone for another day the blessed relief this medicine brings.

The Value of a Smile

It costs nothing, but creates much.

It enriches those who receive, without impoverishing those who give,

It happens in a flash and the memory of it sometimes lasts forever.

It is a rest to the weary, daylight to the discouraged, sunshine to the sad and nature's best antidote for trouble.

Yet it cannot be bought, begged, borrowed or stolen, for it is of no use to anybody until it is given away!

It creates happiness in the home, fosters good will in a business, and is the countersign of friends.

HAWAII KILLING TRIAL NEARS

HONOLULU, March 28 (AP) — With the trial of second degree murder charges against Mrs. Granville Fortescue and three navy men scheduled next Monday, prosecution forces said today defense attorneys have yet to lay their plans for the court battle.

The Washington and New York series of witnesses, including Lieut. Thomas H. Massie and two enlisted men, E. J. Lord and Albert O. Jones, are accused of the lynching of Joseph Kahahawai, young Hawaiian.

Circuit Judge Charles S. Davis has indicated a willingness to continue the case a week if more time is needed by Clarence Darrow, noted Chicago criminal attorney, to prepare his defense.

Darrow was due in Friday night and after his arrival here and inspection of the hotel bed all Saturday, Navy physicians reported he was not needed yesterday.

Kahahawai and five men accused with him in the Mrs. Massie-Fortescue case were abducted and slain January 8.

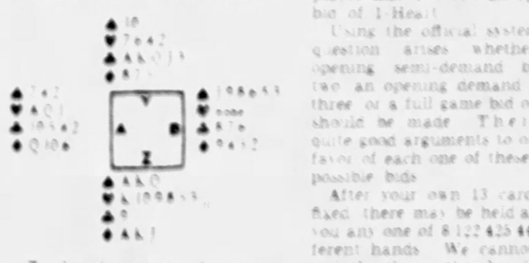
Leading Authorities

By E. V. SHEPARD

A Puzzling Hand to Bid

There are many hands that are so strong as a whole but so lacking in high honors in the longest suit that making an opening bid offers a problem. One such hand is shown below.



Z's hand contains 4 sure quick tricks counting only first and second round defensive tricks as should be done. There is a six-card major suit probably worth three trump tricks against any adverse holding. Eight tricks total for a spread and slightly better than nine probable tricks makes the hand enormous for an opening bid of only one under the official system.

Of course one must view the hand from the standpoint of his own system of bidding. Using the one-over-one system there is little danger that another opportunity for bidding will not be afforded. First partner will keep open the bidding upon as little as the K of one suit and the Q of another for fear the game might be lost or a better declaration missed if he allowed an opening bid of 1-Heart to pass. There are also slightly better than even chances that partner will hold at least one quick trick and better than even chances that another player may overcall an opening bid of 1-Heart.

Using the official system the question arises whether an opening semi-demand bid of two an opening demand bid of three or a full game bid of four should be made. There are quite good arguments to offer in favor of each one of these three possible bids.

After your own 13 cards are fixed there may be held against you any one of 8,122,425,444 different hands. We cannot take just the three other hands that happen to be held on a single deal and state from analysis of the cards as they lie that one species of bid is correct and that any other one of the three possible bids is inferior. Our question is broader than that. We want to know which one of the three bids that Z should make is the best.

It is both stupid and cowardly to think the truth. Others will see the facts even if you do not. Every reasonable system of bidding possesses both points of excellence and weak points. Using the Vanderbilt Club the 2-Club Force or the Two Force it probably would not occur to any player to employ a bid that did not force partner's response.

But under the official system many players might hesitate to force with so high a bid as three knowing that game might lie in spades diamonds or no-trumps rather than in hearts. Such players might prefer to use the semi-opening bid of 2-Hearts but partner will pass such a bid although he holds the one card needed to yield game with so powerful a hand as that shown. Another danger arises in case you do make a demand bid of three if partner should happen to hold the Ace of hearts and solid clubs he might try for a slam that would not materialize. On the whole, however, I think that the best opening bid is 3-Hearts under the official system. There is game with Y as partner. A grand slam would result with A as partner. There is game at spades with B as partner.

WOMAN SCORES OPPONENT

Anne E. Felix, candidate for Congress from the Thirty-second District, has issued a statement declaring that her opponent, Dr. Marion K. McKay, is playing the game for special privilege." She said:

"Dr. McKay, recently from another state, though purporting to teach economics, is not conversant enough with the needs of our people to act efficiently as our representative. This is well illustrated by his advocacy of a state income tax.

"That would be foreign to our way of doing in Pennsylvania and contrary to the wishes of the people. Anyone who advocates such a burden on industry is not really Democratic but playing the game for special privilege."

Watch that "COLD" GERM run!

The Mustard Treatment drives him out before he settles down

GET right into a cozy tub of steaming water with Mustard mixed in it . . . and in the morning all the "cold" germs that gave you aches and "sniffles" will be gone!

It's a homely, old-fashioned remedy, and doctors still agree that it is scientific, up-to-date, and much safer than internal dosing.

As soon as you feel a cold coming on, put four heaping tablespoonfuls of Colman's Mustard in a cup of cold water and blend into a paste. Pour this into a tub of hot water, mixing well. Then hop in. What gentle warmth, what relaxation! No burning . . . just a cozy, wrapped-in-wool sensation. And then, what untroubled sleep!

When your children have cold symptoms, give them a mustard tub or foot bath. They benefit from them just as much as adults do.

Be sure you get Colman's, because it is absolutely pure, and richer in medicinal properties. At all druggists and grocers.

Lily Lou, Back in New York, Invited to Live With Maxine Again

CHAPTER XLVI

"You didn't know I had a baby, did you?" she asked Tony, next day.

"No, I had no idea," he said. "I'd like to see the little fellow, that is, as soon as I feel up to navigating. I've had a little bilious spell—"

"Seasick!"

But she was sorry for poor Tony, looking so green around the gills. Terrible thing seasickness. Last night Tony looked almost like a boy and now he seemed old and sort of off with life again.

"I tell you, I'll bring him up on deck for you to see. He's such a darling. And I know how you feel, because I was simply flat on the way over but of course that was partly because I, well—I was going to have the Bubchen.

"Is that what you call him?"

"His name is Robin, but he was born in Vienna, and one of the sisters or somebody called him the Bubchen. It means little man or something like that—"

TELLS ABOUT MARRIAGE

She stopped because he seemed not to be listening. He kept tight hold of her arm. She knew what he was thinking. But she had made up her mind, there would be no explaining. People could think as they liked, take her or leave her.

"I did not know that you were married," he said after a long pause.

"I wasn't. That is not since you've known me. But I was married, before I came to New York."

"Husband die?"

"No—separated."

Another long pause.

"Didn't you go by the name of Miss Lansing Lily Lou?"

"I don't know—I suppose I did—I resumed my maiden name, why? Do you think I ought to—to—"

"Yes, I would. Mrs. Lansing I think."

"Mrs. Lansing," she repeated after him. It sounded cheap, unreal. They had called her Madame Lansing, of course—everybody did—but that was different. "Mrs." sounded like her mother.

She did not know how tightly she was holding to Tony's hand, how innocently she was revealing her thoughts.

Tony surprised himself by leaning over and kissing her, rather clumsily, on the forehead.

"If you want anything—anything at all—"

TONY IS HELPFUL

He couldn't finish. Lily Lou had the sick feeling that he was offering her his heart and his protection . . . proposing to her.

Poor Tony! Poor sweet Tony! She mustn't let him. Swiftly she turned the subject, assumed her most practical matter of fact manner.

"I'm going to want lots of things, Tony. I've wired Gwin and he says I can come back to him but I'll need help in finding a place to live and I suppose I'll have to board the Bubchen. I haven't a great deal of money—"

They discussed it. Tony was matter of fact and business like, too. Probably she had been wrong. She looked at him anxiously. Tony mustn't get to care too much for her . . . poor old Tony . . .

Tony helped her with the Bubchen, the remainder of the voyage. He stayed with him while she went to meals. Pronounced him a beautiful baby.

Lily Lou beamed.

"He has your eyes," he said presently, "your lovely, long brown eyes, and the great sweep of pencilled brow. He will be a beautiful child."

TALKS ABOUT CHILD

She turned away. She had been thinking of his ears, his delicately molded chin . . . like Ken's . . .

She had been terribly afraid that people would pity her because she had a baby, draw away from her, perhaps even point her out as an outcast! It had seemed that way, at first.

But it wasn't so hard. She had to put him into a nursery at first, there was nothing else to do. But she made no secret of him, talked about "my baby . . . you didn't know I had a baby, did you?"

"Heavens no!" Wanda Pillsbury said. "Didn't even know you were married!"

"I'm not. I'm separated from my husband."

Maybe that explained it, and maybe it didn't. She called herself Lily Lou Lansing, without any "Mrs." or "Miss." When forced to designate, she said "Mrs."—I'll be called Madame Lansing before long, anyway," she thought.

Dwight Gwin knew about the baby, of course, but he did not speak of it for several days. When he did, it was as if he had always existed. She was grateful to him for that.

Tony went with her frequently on her visits to the nursery, fondled the baby, made faces to make him laugh.

Tony was actually a member of the Metropolitan Orchestra now. It was heartening to see how delighted he was. He must have hated his job in the Bronx movie as much as she hated her first New York job in the chop-suey place.

SEES MAXINE

While she was still at the Pennsylvania hotel where she had gone on landing, Maxine Rochon, in a neat blue silk coat suit and a new hat, called to see her.

"My dear, I've just heard you were back. I bumped into Wanda and she said you were here and all set to start work with Gwin again. So I rushed right over. I want you to come live with me again—"

"Oh! But I couldn't—Mrs. Manchester would never take—"

"Manchester? Oh I split up with her right after you left. Frances got a job in Chicago and when I brought in Olive Hanaur—Olive's really a good egg, but a little lively—she had a fit. So the two of us walked out on her—just ahead of the sheriff, and Olive and I took an apartment on Fifty-seventh, right next door to where Manchester used to live.

"Used to live?"

"Sure. She left for Europe right after. You didn't meet her by chance, did you? Well, anyway, Olive and I took this apartment—nothing elegant like Manchester's, a mere three-roomer, but neat and free, all but the gas and electric, and telephone—"

"Maxine Rochon! I never in my life saw such a girl for getting things free!"

"No? Well you're not so slow yourself. You did pretty well by yourself, little Red Riding Hood with your eight months gadding all over the continent at Madame Nahlman's expense, and then falling back on Gwin with free lessons and I suppose a salary again."

"I didn't go after any of it." Lily Lou said a little wearily, and with a trace of shame.

"All right, have it your own way. But what about moving in with me? Olive has left me. I could get someone else, but I'd rather have you."

"Oh, I'd like to come, Maxie, but when I get to earning a little more I want to have the baby with me. I'm afraid you wouldn't like that. Oh! You didn't know about my baby, did you? Born in Vienna—five months old—"

"Yes, I knew. Wanda told me you told her. Gosh, I felt terrible. My God, why didn't you tell me? I could have—"

But she saw the warning in Lily Lou's face.

"Could have given you lots of help," she finished. "You know I'm the eldest of five! Well—you certainly do give a person surprises. For a quiet looking little thing!"

Lily Lou looked at her, poised between tears and laughter. "Oh well! What did it matter?" She laughed. It probably decided her future.

"You're not so slow yourself," said Maxine.

Heart of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Assured of Safety of Children

I was only too glad to obey my mother-in-law's mandate to run quickly and bring Richard Second and Roderick here. Even her use of the name Richard Second that she insists ponderously upon using instead of "Junior," which she dislikes, failed to stir my risibles as it usually does. As I sped out of the room I mentally echoed her words. "I want to see with my own eyes that they are safe."

CALL UNANSWERED

When I had come out of the door of the little studio-bungalow at the completion of the first draft of my fourth act, I had seen my young son and his cousin with my father at the far end of the orchard. Then had come Hank's frantic summons for aid following his and Bill's discovery of the apparently dead Chinese in the cornfield. When I had returned from driving the car up to the cornfield and back again with the body of the wounded and unconscious man in it, I had seen neither my father nor the children, although, knowing him, I had been sure they were together. But as I raced down the hall to my father's room I felt a little of my old panic coming back. It was as if my mother-in-law had infected me with her own terror.

"Father!" I called, softly, when there was no answer to my knock at the door of the room. Then in a louder tone "Father, are you there?"

From the nursery door which my mother-in-law had not closed, came her anxious voice.

"Aren't they there?"

"No. I can get no answer," I said.

"Then they're not on this floor," she said shrewdly, or they would have heard that last call of yours. Hurry downstairs. They may be in the basement playroom."

"I'm very sure I shall find them there," I said, as I turned toward the stairs.

CHILDREN INQUISITIVE

"Don't forget to bring them up here," she called after me, and though I knew the boys were better off in the cool basement playroom I comprehended, even sympathized with her desire to have them up on the second floor within reach of her hand.

It was not my father, however, whom I found in the basement playroom, but Lillian, who was down on the floor manipulating the boys' electric train with as much gusto as if she were their own age.

"Mums!" Junior demanded as the boys scrambled to their feet and came running over to me, "what's all the row about? They carried a man into the house, didn't they? Is he dead? Where did you find him?"

"If you'll come upstairs with me, I'll tell you all about it," I said exchanging a meaning glance with Lillian. "Your grandmother wants to see you up there."

Lillian nodded sapiently.

"Going to enlighten all the generations?" she asked.

"There appears to be no other way, I answered. "There is only one antidote for the martyr temperament, and that is melodrama, as we have found before, you and I know."

I smiled at her, but Junior gave me no chance for further comment. He and Roderick were ranged on either side of me tugging at my arm.

"You know we've told you to be very careful about going outside the gate, because there were men abroad that might hurt you," I said.

KNEW ABOUT CHINESE

"Oh, yes," they chorused, "we knew, the Chinese. Bill and Hank told us about them. They've been hunting them."

I wondered just how much the older boys had seen fit to confide in their small cousins and realized that the opportunity to "show off" a bit had been too much for them.

"Well!" I went on, "these Chinese that the boys have been watching nearly killed a man of their own country this morning in our cornfield. Bill stayed up there and Hank came down to tell us about it."

"Didn't I tell you?" Junior demanded of Roderick. "We were in the orchard with grandpa, and we saw Hank run up and say something to you and then a little later you and dad went up the hill. Then you came back again with a man that looked as if he were dead. You said 'nearly killed him.' Isn't he dead yet?"

"No, darling," I answered, and wondered drearily if I were not telling a falsehood.

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

Every seat in the Arsenal Theater was filled Saturday morning with members of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club. The rain didn't keep these youngsters home, because Saturday was a gala day for the children of this neighborhood. The Arsenal Minstrel Show, put on by members of the Junior Komic Club was to make its debut. And were the children of the audience excited? Back stage there was the hurry and bustle of a "first night" with little chaps in black-face, girls in pretty costumes and make-up.

Those taking part in the show were: Steve Delost, John Hilliard, Al Gressler, Howard Morris, Russell Nigel, Bernadine Gressler, Blanche Covaleski, Betty Richards, Lois Richards, Virginia Stack, Frances Kane, Josephine Barron, Rose Zinn, Josephine Lang, Mickey Supple, Laura Jackobs, Veronica Walsh, Betty Racke, Jean Lesnick.

EASTER PARTIES

Most of the meetings Saturday were devoted to Easter parties for the children, many of the theaters gave the youngsters candy Easter eggs and other favors. Manager Murdock, of the Rowland (Wilkinsburg) chapter, delivered to each of the members who were sick and unable to attend the meeting a large Easter egg.

The 19 youngsters who won the Junior Komic Club sweaters, for the best coloring of "Barney Google," which appeared a week ago Sunday in the Sun-Telegraph, received their sweaters, and the other children were told how they could secure one of these dandy white, woolly sweaters by doing just a little extra work after school this week. All the children who win sweaters this week will have their names in the Junior Komic Club news next Sunday. Will you be one?

At the Enright chapter, Scouts from Troop 100 put on a show for the children, after Miss Dolly Fritz had instructed the dancing class for more than two hours. About 500 children attended the dancing class, everywhere you looked on the big stage of the Enright you saw youngsters doing all sorts of fancy steps, splits, back bends, high kicks, taps. Miss Fritz promises to stage a regular show with the boys and girls in the dancing class real soon.

A week ago Saturday at the South Hills chapter the following boys and girls were enrolled into the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club:

Not many spring ensembles were worn yesterday by the smart set, for most of them preferred the comfort of fur coats to the charm of their new smart costumes on such a penetratingly cold day. But nevertheless churchgoers Easter morning had a most festive air, for the women had corsages of orchids or roses or spring flowers, and pert straw hats were much in favor.

The Richard Beatty Mellons attended the services of the East Liberty Presbyterian Church, held in the Regent Theater while the new church is under construction. With them was their little granddaughter, Sarah Cordelia Scaife, daughter of the Alan Magee Scaifes.

The junior William Larimer Mellons attended Shadyside Presbyterian Church. Mrs. Mellon wore a Kelly green wool coat with a biege fox collar and a smart black straw beret. The W. Rankin Pureys were there, too.

With the E. W. Thomsons at Shadyside was their house guest, Betty Parsons, of Toronto. And

Seen at Shadyside

I saw Mary Edwards, wearing a leopard coat and a brown felt hat, chatting with friends after services.

Mrs. C. W. Ridinger, Jr., chose a navy blue wool suit, a straw beret to match and had a corsage of orchids. Frances Reed and her mother, Mrs. James H. Reed, Jr., were there, and the Herbert A. Mays with Mrs. May wearing a Kelly green suit, trimmed in black seal.

Others I noticed at Shadyside were the Samuel Harden Churches and Mrs. Singer Ebbert. At Calvary Episcopal, were the E. Paul Tunnells, Margaret Brainard and her mother, Mrs. Edward H. Brainard, Neil Stewart Zang, Rita Borntraeger and her mother, Mrs. Carl H. Borntraeger.

Preceding the Easter dance in the Edgeworth Club tonight will be several dinners for the school set, including a dinner the McLeane Brownes will give for their daughter, Marjorie, and one the junior Morgan H. Bowmans will give in their home for their daughter, Kitty.

TIP YOUR HAT TO SPRING FASHION

—Sketched in Paris—

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, March 28.—You have just got to tip your hat to fashion this spring if you want to be at all in the mode. Although it is being predicted in some quarters that the hat sitting straight and low on the brow will be with us in the autumn, there is no denying the fact that on every head we see rakish hats clinging perilously over one ear, while the opposite side of the head is sometimes almost entirely exposed. Say what you want about this fashion, there can be no gainsaying its youthful charm and gay appeal. These hats must have expertly placed trimming to accentuate their lines and the hat must never be overtrimmed. Ribbon is being extensively used in plain bands and in shirred fancies, loops and rosettes. The flower trimmed hat is seen, of course, but not nearly as much as the hat with ribbon trimming. And when flowers are used, it is usually to the extent of one or two gardenias, tailored flowers as it were.

LE MONNIER IS ONE modiste showing almost every hat in her spring collection tipped rakishly to one side. Her hats are all very good, as she does models of this kind so well. Sketched is one of her new youthful and charming one-sided hats. It is of black panot straw with a wide, shirred piece like half a ribbon rosette pressed closely against the exposed side of the head. This is composed of a closely shirred center done in red crepe ribbon and a ruffled border in black satin. The hat has a narrow rolled brim and a flat, shallow crown. Two glove models from Buscarlet are shown in the same sketch. On the hand in the foreground the glove is of white glace kid with the flaring cuff worked in chain-stitch in black thread in plaid effect. The other white kid glove is stitched in black and has a gusset of black kid perforated over white, set in at the back of the wrist.

CHURCH PLEADS FOR PAULETTA

Col. Samuel Harden Church, president of Carnegie Institute, has added his plea to that of organized labor seeking to save the life of Frank Pauletta, Coverdale miner, from a West Virginia gallows.

In a letter to William G. Conley, of West Virginia, Col. Church urged commutation of the sentence under which Pauletta is to be executed April 22 for a murder committed 18 years ago. He based his appeal on reports that Pauletta, who escaped jail a short time before he was to have been hanged in 1914, had since led a "decent and upright life."

Men Form Party To Oust Women City Officials

GILLETT, Ark., March 28.—(AP.)—The women who hold all city offices here like "official bossing" so well they are determined to be re-elected April 5.

But the men are in organized revolt. They held a caucus and nominated an anti-petticoat ticket. They said the women should be satisfied with "home rule" and allow the men at least the semblance of authority.

So it's up to the voters to decide whether they will be governed by city mothers or city fathers.

GROWING AUTO TOLL ALARMS

There has been a tremendous increase in "motor vehicle-fixed object" type of accident and an increase in pedestrian "crossing against signal" accidents. In the month of February there were 255 accidents involving of 13 fatalities, while in February, 1931, there were seven deaths.

LISTENING IN—With the Radio Editor

SILAS H. STRAWN, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, will be heard through WCAE tomorrow afternoon when he speaks at a luncheon meeting of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce at 1 o'clock.

Mr. Strawn

Mr. Strawn, one of the foremost business leaders in the country, will speak on "Obstacles to World Trade." He has just returned from Europe, where he spent the last six weeks discussing economic conditions with high government officials and industrialists in several countries. His address here will be his first public appearance since his return.

Howard Heinz will be chairman of the meeting.

Radio formally launches the state political campaign tomorrow night when Gov. Gifford Pinchot and Gen. Smedley D. Butler, his candidate for United States Senator, speak at the Pennsylvania Republican Independents' rally in Carnegie Music Hall. Their addresses will be broadcast over a special hookup by WCAE in Pittsburgh and by WFI and WLIT in Philadelphia from 9:30 to 10.

Rudy Vallee from the studios of WCAE greets Buddy Rogers, his successor at the Hotel Pennsylvania in New York, with a five-minute song program tonight. The occasion is NBC's welcome to the former film star making his debut as an orchestra director. The program from midnight to 1 a. m. is heard through WCAE on the WEAF network. Other radio luminaries taking part are Paul Whiteman from New York, Leo Conrad from Boston and Charles Agnew from Chicago.

Rudy makes his second appearance of the week in the WCAE studios when he broadcasts his regular "Sunshine Hour" program from there Thursday night. And incidentally, word from WCAE, already swamped with requests, is to the effect that no visitors will be permitted to watch Rudy and his Connecticut Yankees perform.

Fan Fare

CAROLYN GRAY, the pretty though quiet pianist at the NBC studios, is a real radio veteran, having gone on the air for the first time from KDKA when that station was very young. . . . Before she went to NBC as a member of the staff, she was WCAE's hostess. . . . From a New York radio reporter comes the prediction of a network future for our own crazy pair, Riggs and Moke. . . . Joe Sartory, of WWSW, is proud of his sister, Rose Sartory Boyer, of Alliance, O., who came on to Pittsburgh last week for two broadcasts. Mrs. Boyer is a Cleveland church singer and is well known to Cleveland and Akron radio audiences.

Miss Gray

James Wallington studied medicine, later geology and finally majored in English. . . . John Carlisle, Columbia's production manager, says Mayor James Walker's voice is one of the most colorful ever heard on radio. Gov. Roosevelt's one of the finest, and Al Smith's is all his own, obviously unsuitable for anyone else. . . . T. Daniel Frawley, NBC actor, has made six trips around the world managing his own stock companies. . . . Paul Whiteman won't ride on an elevator with more than four persons, despite his new low in weight.

Program Pointers

Ethel Barrymore Colt, daughter of the famous Ethel Barrymore, makes one of her rare trips to the microphone to be interviewed by George Seibel, dramatic and literary critic of the Sun-Telegraph, tonight at 6 o'clock over WCAE. . . . Incidentally, the youthful Miss Barrymore is of the ninth generation of this famous family to carry on the traditions of the stage. . . . She is featured with Rudy Vallee in George White's "Scandals" at the Alvin this week.

Miss Colt

"Light Fingered Harry," a dramatic program which sounds exciting, is presented during the Death Valley Days broadcast over KDKA at 8:30.

Another program of interest to play-lovers is the presentation of the eighth episode of "Doctor Dragonette" by the KQV players at 9. To date, this serial has evoked more than 700 letters of applause.

The very latest in novelties is presented over WCAE at 6:45 when the heart beats of Virginia Gardiner, young radio actress, are broadcast by means of a cardigraph attached to her arm. The electricity generated by the jaws of a boy eating apple pie is heard, too.

George Burns and Gracie Allen lend their comedy to the Guy Lombardo program on WJAS at 10.

Charleroi is saluted during the Westinghouse Parade tonight at 6:15 over KDKA.

Yvonne d'Arle, soprano, who created the title role in "Countess Maritza," makes her radio debut on the Parade of States program when tribute is paid to Missouri over WCAE at 9:30.

"Constable Whaley's First Patrol," a story of the Canadian Mounted Police at Colichan, in north British Columbia, who protect the wilderness Indian tribes from unscrupulous traders, is dramatized on KDKA at 10.

Congress Is Proceeding to Intensify the Depression, Says William R. Hearst

the government going to collect profit taxes, and income taxes?

OH, YES, you are quite right, I have a personal interest in the matter, AND SO HAVE YOU.

Prosperity makes everybody prosperous, and depression makes everybody depressed; uninformed legislators and unscientific legislation make every bad situation worse.

Of course, we can all do courageously and even cheerfully whatever we are called upon to do.

We can all stop buying the things we want, and even some of the things we need.

We can all stop spending money, and hoard it, and surrender it to the government.

We are all "fellow citizens."

We are all in the same big boat, and it is called the United States of America.

If it rains we all get wet.

If it storms we all get sick.

If we have fools for a crew, we are likely to have a rather disagreeable passage, and maybe a dangerous one.

DON'T YOU think we should look over the crew carefully and see if we cannot make some improvements in the personnel at the next election?

Don't you think conditions call for a pretty competent captain, and a pretty intelligent and re[illegible] and well disciplined crew?

Just remember that the good old boat is rocking a good deal, and the captain doesn't seem to know how to steer the course, and the crew doesn't seem to know how to set the sails.

Some pretty short sighted tax legislation is being passed at Washington, but the prosperity loan to relieve unemployment has not yet been passed; and is not likely to be.

Our star-spangled representatives at Washington are not interested in diminishing unemployment.

They are only interested in increasing it.

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST.

TAYLOR, STEEL LEADER, DIES

LA PORTE, Ind., March 28.—(AP)—W. E. Taylor, 79, who retired in 1902 as general manager of the Republic Iron and Steel Company of Pittsburgh, died at his home here yesterday.

He was born in Cleveland and started his steel career there. Later he was an executive in a steel plant at Youngstown, O., before going to Pittsburgh.

He is survived by his widow and nine children. The children are George R., W. E., Jr., Charles A. Taylor and Mrs. Lillian Boyd, all of La Porte, and Mrs. Helen Quayle, Pasadena, Cal., Mrs. Frederica G. Evans and Mrs. Mason Evans, both of Youngstown, O., and Mrs. Dwight Comstock, Plainfield, N. J., and Mrs. William Cutler, of Council Bluffs, Ia. Funeral services will be held here Tuesday.

LOVE ROW

DETROIT, March 28.—(INS)—Leonard Cote, 29, was under arrest today charged with killing his brother, Howard, 35, after a fight over the younger man's sweetheart, Mrs. Lola Schmidt, a widow, sweetheart of Leonard Cote, is held as a police witness.

The aged mother of the men was grief-stricken when informed of the killing. At first she could not believe it. She said:

"It can't be. They loved each other. Howard has been head of the family since my husband died in 1914.

"He was father as well as brother to Leonard, fought his battles for him in school and together they have worked to make things comfortable for me.

"But I'll stick by Leonard. I'll do anything to save my boy, Leonard. He must have been insane to have killed his brother, the one he loved most above everything else in the world."

Students Captured As Holdup Bandits

CHICAGO, March 28.—(INS)—Short-lived was the bandit career of two 16-year-old high school students, Owen Woods and Albert Van Sevenmen, who today were in the hands of police. Ten minutes after they had held up and robbed an Illinois Central suburban station of $8 they were captured. Police announced they had confessed, explaining that they "needed money."

THRONGS GREET EASTER DAWN IN SCHENLEY

Chilled Worshipers Answer Trumpet Call; Young and Old Sing and Hear Sermon

The sun, trying feebly, rose over Flagstaff Hill in Schenley Park yesterday on thousands of men, women and children participating in the Easter sunrise service—symbol of the Resurrection of Christ.

Trumpeters sounded their fanfare. Families, shivering in the cold dawn, gathered on the side of the hill to answer the call. A chorus of voices of men and women sang "Resurrection." A prayer followed. Then from the voices of the growing throng rang out a simple hymn, its melody awakening the stillness of the woods and hills of the park.

BROADCAST BY WCAE

Amplifiers carried the voice of Stanley Fincke as he read from the Scripture. William S. Wise followed with a prayer and the Rev. Dr. Carl Wallace Petty, pastor of the First Baptist Church, spoke on Easter, the Resurrection and their meaning to mankind.

The sun had not penetrated the damp clouds when he gave the benediction.

The service was broadcast by radio station WCAE.

Many young children wrapped in blankets, girls in their gay colored Easter outfits, spring coats and bonnets; older folks, some showing frayed signs of the times—all melded into the open-air congregation.

YOUNG PEOPLE SPONSORS

The service was sponsored by the Young People's Christian Union, Young Men's Christian Association, Young Women's Christian Association, Pittsburgh Conference Epworth League, Pittsburgh Council of Churches, Pittsburgh Association Baptist Young People's Union, Pittsburgh District Luther League No. 7, Presbyterian Young People's Missionary Association, Allegheny County Sabbath School Association, Allegheny County Christian Endeavor Union and chorus.

Furniture Given Goodwill Group

The Pittsburgh Goodwill Industries received several gifts of new pulpit furniture and pictures of deceased members of the board of managers at special exercises yesterday in the community house of the association, Liberty avenue and Twenty-eighth street. The furniture was the gift of Mrs. William A. Early in memory of her husband.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

SANTA MONICA, Cal., March 28.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Calvin Coolidge had a mighty instructive article on finances in last week's Sat-Eve-Post. We got a long-sighted government. When everybody has got money they cut the taxes, and when they're broke they raise 'em. That's statesmanship of the highest order. The reason there wasn't much unemployment in the last 10 years preceding '29 was every man that was out of a job went to work for the government, state, or city. It costs 10 times more to govern us than it used to, and we are not governed one-tenth as good.

Will Rogers

Yours, WILL.

Drys Can Deny Beer Flows But They'll Tax It

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

How can Washington tax home brew without admitting there is home brew?

The answer is that when an ostrich buries her head in the sand it doesn't stop her from laying an egg.

By the tax on Bungalow beer Washington concedes that the Volstead act has simmered down to a well modulated croon for help.

The government expects to make fifty millions a year on the home brew tax.

That ain't bad wages for pumping out damp cellars.

The tax is thirty-five cents a gallon on malt extract. It's economical compared with the usual judge's fine on ten dollars for the same quantity.

So we'll be saving money.

There's one thing we will say about the late, unlamented Eighteenth amendment.

It was a lot of good, clean fun.

BRIDGEVILLE'S CHIEF DENIES CHARGES

Clash With Mt. Lebanon Police Over Arrest of 2 After Chase Deadlocked

The war between Mt. Lebanon and Bridgeville police is at a standstill, The last volley was fired by Chief R. W. Fink, of Bridgeville, when he denied the charges of two township officers that a Bridgeville officer had refused them aid.

Chief William J. Kane, of Mt. Lebanon, who announced following the fracas last Friday, he would carry the affair to District Attorney Andrew T. Park, said he may do so before two prisoners arrested last Friday are arraigned next Friday. It was the arrest of Peter Cherry, Railroad street, and Narini Dalfurzo, Baldwin street, Bridgeville, that caused the war. Robert Hasley, township officer, had chased the two to Bridgeville where he said he was threatened by a mob and refused assistance by Patrolman John Mailio, of Bridgeville. He summoned Township Patrolmann Ted Carrington, and the two men were arrested.

Chief Fink asserted Mailio cleared a path through a crowd of 30 or 40 men to assist the officers. Fink declared Mailio assisted the Mt. Lebanon policemen through the crowd which was hurling insults at them and that the suspects were then returned to Mt. Lebanon in a scout car.

Soho 'Babe Ruth' Retires, Feted By Police Pals

There was a great vacancy on Pittsburgh's police force today as Tom ("Babe Ruth") Costello officially retired on pension to sit in his new chair in his home at 241 Semple street.

"The Babe" was presented the chair and a lounging robe by his friends on the force at Oakland Police Station last night. Inspector James N. Hoey made the presentation.

Costello wouldn't admit today that he had reached 70, but with an accent as rich as it was the day he landed here from Ireland, he boasted of 36 years on the force.

Many of those years were spent walking a beat in Soho in the days when Soho hadn't acquired a genteel disposition. In fact, the legend is that "the Babe" earned his nickname by the number of strikes he hung up with a swinging mace.

So it was fitting that across the back of the lounging robe Babe's friends had woven the words:

"Babe Ruth of Soho."

FUNDS VOTED BY CITY, AID WORK

Poor Directors Pledge Help in County; Harris Plan Held Needy Hope

Food orders made available by the city's $260,000 relief appropriation were being distributed today from six city relief centers in the Hill district, North Side, Hazelwood, East Liberty and West End.

Each order is checked through a cash register, so that a complete total of the day's relief is available.

Relief is only being given to persons bearing requisitions from one of seven welfare agencies. The food orders are to be filled by grocers named by the agencies. The grocers must agree to prices listed each week by the fair price committee. The prices are below the retail rates.

The County Poor Board also has promised to provide $260,000 and will hold a conference with emergency association leaders regarding a source from which the money may be borrowed. A special committee of the emergency association will help the Poor Board in arranging bank credit.

COUNTY DISTRIBUTION

A start on the distribution of the county fund has been promised by Wednesday. It will be handled the same way as the city money, the Poor Board retaining control of the administration, but placing the money where it may be used to best advantage by the established agencies.

City and county officials have tossed aside politics in the handling of the emergency relief funds. Not a cent will be spent on either the city or the county payrolls outside of the staffs already in existence. All funds will go directly to feed and clothe the poor.

Such is the pressure of unemployment that with the end of the Emergency Association's work program, forced by lack of funds, some uncertainty is expressed on how long the city appropriation will last. It is feared that is cannot be made to cover a longer period than three weeks.

HARRIS CAMPAIGN

With the city struggling with a deficit of more than $1,160,000 and its tax collections lower than last year, the one hope of providing for the destitute lies in the plan of Senator Frank J. Harris. One of the most potent forces in the Harris campaign will go to work quietly tomorrow night. This is the "advance guard" under Taylor Allderdice.

The "advance guard" will go after big subscriptions. It will present the needs to heads of corporations and wealthy individuals capable of providing for a large number of families.

Penciled Sentence Probated as Woman's Will

An estate valued at $3,500 was disposed of in an unusual will probated today in the Register of Wills office. A sheet of ordinary writing paper bore the one sentence by which Lillie E. Aiken, of Robinson Township, left her estate to her brother, Albert.

Written in pencil, the message read as follows:

"When I am gone, after all expenses are paid, I want my brother Albert to have all that is left of my estate."

The will was dated October 1, 1915. Letters of administration were issued to the brother.

ARNOLD KILLING TRIAL NEARS FINAL STAGE

Congressman Kendall Will Testify for One of Nine Murder Case Defendants

UNIONTOWN, Pa., March 28.—Fate of nine men charged with the murder of Mike Philopovich during a mine riot at Arnold City June 23 will pass into the hands of the jury late Tuesday, according to present indications. Much of today was consumed in the procession of character witnesses.

Congressman Samuel A. Kendall, who was to testify as to the pouch, was delayed by the storm. Half dozen witnesses have testified that they saw Yurcon fire a shotgun in the direction of the victim and simultaneously saw the state's prosecutor, Dr. William Tenise, of Fayette City, vouched for the reputations of Supt. Barnes and Gilmore Hunt, Fisher Royston and Clay Baugh.

No Easter sunrise service or sermon greeted the ears of the jurors who spent Sunday in their quarters on the third floor of the Court House. They were taken in a nearby restaurant for their usual three meals and enjoyed a two-hour walk in various sections of the city.

The complete text of the newspapers, stock market and magazines were perused with the tipstaves careful to delete any news of the trial.

The two women members of the jury devoted the spare moments to cross-word puzzles. Wives of five jurors sent hampers of Easter eggs and all were served a portion of them.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—At his first major move toward organization of his forces in the state, Senator Samuel Davis of Pennsylvania today had engineered the appointment of Joseph S. Mackrell, Pittsburgh, as manager of Davis' campaign for renomination and reelection.

He indicated that due to the pressure of congressional business he would leave most of the details of the campaign to Mackrell, asserting that he would have but little time to make a canvass of the state.

LESLIE M. SHAW DIES AT 84

WASHINGTON, March 28.—AP.—Death came early today to Leslie M. Shaw, who was Secretary of the Treasury under President Roosevelt and before that attained national prominence as Governor of Iowa.

Eighty-four years old, Shaw succumbed to double pneumonia developed from a cold he contracted several weeks ago on a business trip to New York. His widow survives him, a daughter, Mrs. John McMullin, and a son, Earl Shaw, now in Minneapolis.

In recent years the former secretary devoted himself to writing on financial topics, on which he was quite an authority, and to rather extensive business interests. He had just finished the manuscript of a book on the government payroll.

Returning from the cabinet to private life, Shaw suffered financial setbacks which turned him to lecturing and writing. Advancing age caused him to yield the platform some years ago.

He was born in Morristown, Vt., removed early to Iowa, but made Washington his home upon leaving public service.

Mrs. Longworth and Child Are Guarded

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 28.—(INS)—Mrs. Nicholas Longworth and her daughter, Paulina, are visiting here apparently under the care of two guards.

They are stopping at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel, and whenever they go outside they are accompanied by two men. Last week the widow of the former speaker of the House received a threat that her child would be kidnaped, it was reported.

Blackburn Enters Race as Alternate

Attorney James B. Blackburn today announced his candidacy for alternate delegate from the Thirty-third Congressional District to the Democratic convention. He is running on a platform of uninstructed delegation, committed to the leadership of former Gov. Smith.

Repair Work Solves Unemployment Problem

Citizens of Bentleyville, in a unique way, have solved the town's present stage of depression by putting to work every able bodied unemployed man who is in need of food for his family.

The pay is $2 for an eight-hour day—but instead of cash the men are supplied with food, purchased at a wholesale price. They are put to work cleaning the borough streets, roads and schools.

Burgess I. N. South, serving his tenth year as head of the mining town with a population of 4,000, conceived the idea several months ago. It was put into operation last week.

WORK ONE DAY A WEEK

The applicant fills out a form containing 14 questions as to his income and dependents and stating whether he has money in a defunct or open bank. He then makes an oath before Justice of the Peace I. E. Sands, who is also secretary of the relief association and the school board. The applicant is then investigated, and if he is deemed worthy his name is placed on a bulletin board on the main street.

Each applicant, at present, works one day a week, the executive committee reported. There are now more than 100 applications. Twelve men are put to work every day under the supervision of the Street Commissioner.

FOOD ORDERS ISSUED

After the day's work, an order for merchandise, signed by the secretary and the street commissioner, is given to the applicant. He then presents it to the commissary officials and receives his food.

The executive committee members are Burgess South, chairman; Squire Sands, secretary; the Rev. A. T. Carr, of the Presbyterian Church, treasurer; Councilman I. T. Rush, President of the School Board C. E. Nixon, Councilman O. M. Frye and Supervising Principal of Schools R. J. Hartzel are the vice chairmen. The auditing committee, which audit the commissary books each week, comprises Postmaster W. J. Wilson, the Rev. G. L. Basha, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and J. W. Pierson. The commissary is in charge of Chief of Police Frank Weitz. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cristina and their daughter, Miss Sarah Cristina. Co-operating with this new plan are Drs. A. N. Booth, R. A. Cummins, John A. Kreznoff and Druggist S. P. Caldwell.

Federal Bus Line Control Advocated

WASHINGTON, March 28.—(AP)—Arthur M. Hill, of Charleston, W. Va., president of the National Association of Motor Bus Operators, today told the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee that regulation of interstate bus lines was essential to development of an orderly and dependable service.

Hill, also the president of the Atlantic Greyhound Lines, Inc., which operates buses over 18 states, warned against Congress attempting to impose restrictions that would mean prohibitive operating costs.

INDIAN HUNTS JOB

Brave Sees Passing Of Glamor From Red Man

If you don't think depressions are hard on Indian medicine men, just ask Charles Fun, soldier, actor, singer, but above all an Indian, now living at 1213 Wylie avenue.

Since last July, Medicine Man Fun has been on the "war path" for a job. "I'd like to go on the stage and sing Indian songs and tell stories about the Indian life he once knew on the Six Nations reservation in Canada, but he tells you:

"I guess the Indian business is about a thing of the past. Americans don't seem to care much what has become of the Indian, but rather what has become of their dividends."

Fun's most precious possession is a hunting club given to him shortly before the death of his grandfather, Chief John Fun, who died in 1911 at the age of 105.

The Thrift Garden Committee will open headquarters Friday at 516 Grant street. W. P. Witherow is general chairman.

Large tracts of land have been donated for garden purposes. The McIntosh Hemphill Company has provided 40 acres of choice garden soil near Blawnox.

The Nugent property in Swissvale with space for 100 gardens is available, it is reported, as well as an 80-acre tract in the McKay estate near Lincoln avenue. Penn Township Efforts are being made to arrange transportation to and from gardens. A survey is being made of city and county properties to find productive garden land.

Detectives are investigating reports that an ax was wielded during the melee.

CO-ED SLAYING AROUSES MOB

EL DORADO, Ark., March 28.—(INS.)—Heavily-armed special guards patrolled the county jail grounds today to protect Irwin Eddington, self-confessed murderer of a 19-year-old orphan co-ed, from the fury of an indignant public.

The guards were ordered posted about the jail when crowds of men and women began assembling in the neighborhood and open threats of lynching were heard.

Eddington, police said, made a written confession admitting having attacked Ruth Youngblood, a Magnolia A. and M. College student, before he battered her head with a rock and hurled her to her death under the wheels of a freight train. Eddington, according to authorities, said the roar of the oncoming train seemed to partially revive his victim. The girl began to recover consciousness and struggled feebly to drag herself from the path of the approaching train. But she was too weak. The train struck her.

When Miss Youngblood's body was found, it was at first believed she had committed suicide. But, discovery of her purse in a box car, standing on a railroad siding, led to an investigation which resulted in Eddington's arrest.

GUARD PRELATE, FEAR KIDNAPING

SAN FRANCISCO, March 28.—(AP.)—Archbishop Francisco Orozco y Jiminez, of Mexico, was under guard here today while police investigated an alleged plot to kidnap or assassinate him.

The guard was thrown about a Catholic Dominican Fathers' priory, where Archbishop Orozco is a guest, at the request of the Very Rev. Edward J. Whelan, president of San Francisco University.

Father Whelan told police he had heard of the plot from a Spanish speaking priest who had, in turn, been advised of the alleged danger to the archbishop by a Mexican member of the church.

In 1917 Archbishop Orozco was accused of scheming against the Mexican government. He was court martialed and ordered deported. After some time in exile, he returned to his diocese at Guadalajara. Two years ago, he was again banished. He went to Laredo, Tex., but about a month ago again returned to Mexico. Shortly thereafter, government officials escorted him across the line into Texas and ordered him to stay out of the country.

GUARD AGAINST MINE SNIPERS

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., March 28.—(INS.)—While Sheriff Harry C. Smith prepared for another threatened gun battle with snipers similar to one Saturday when 250 shots were exchanged with guards, 50 miners went to work undisturbed today at the Wolford Coal Company mine near Newport.

Bullets pierced miners' cottages and whizzed dangerously close to miners' families in the Saturday battle. A 2-year-old son of Frank Ulrich, a miner, escaped death only by six inches, it was reported.

Bullets also flew close to Mrs. Albert Walker, a miner's wife, who held a week-old baby in her arms.

MAN TRAPPED BY FIRE DIES

Andrew Spallo, 56, died from burns early today en route to the McKeesport Hospital after firemen had chopped their way into his third floor room in a burning boarding house at 615 Jerome street, McKeesport, to rescue him.

Firemen fought their way through smoke to Spallo's room and after forcing the door, found the victim, clad in night attire, unconscious on the bed. He was burned and overcome by smoke, and after a futile attempt to revive him, firemen removed him to the hospital, where he was pronounced dead.

The fire started on the third floor from an overheated hot plate, according to McKeesport firemen. The flames worked downward in the three-story frame building. Damage was estimated at $3,000.

Spallo was not married.

DON'T DESTROY

the ELASTICITY that makes stockings wear

DO YOU KNOW what causes those ruinous stocking runs?

New stockings are elastic. They give under strain, stretch and then spring back again. When this precious elasticity is destroyed, the silk threads, instead of giving, break under strain. It is then that runs start!

That is why Lux is especially made to preserve the elasticity that makes even sheer stockings WEAR.

The Lux Way to make stockings wear*

Wash this 2-minute way: 1. One teaspoon of Lux for each pair. 2. Add lukewarm water to Lux, squeeze suds through stockings, rinse well.

Don't rub with cake soap. It destroys the elasticity of the silk. With Lux there's no rubbing.

Avoid ordinary soaps—cakes, powders, chips. These often contain harmful alkali which weakens threads, fades color. Lux has no harmful alkali. Anything safe in water is safe in Lux.

Don't use too-warm water—it fades. Lux melts in lukewarm water.

MEDALS GIVEN 27 LOCAL DRIVERS

Liberty Baking Employes Honored by Safety Group For 'No-Accident' Record

Twenty seven drivers of the Liberty Baking Company who operated their trucks more than half a million miles in Pittsburgh during the past year, without an accident of any kind, received signal honors last Saturday night, when they were presented with no-accident driver awards medals by the National Safety Council.

S. S. Watts, president of Liberty Baking Company, in addressing a meeting of employes said:

"We are proud of this accomplishment. These 27 men made their perfect records in face of storms and traffic jams, rigid delivers schedules and reckless 'other fellows' who are the plague of the careful driver. They have proved safe driving possible in Pittsburgh, and we hope their example will be noted by the thousands of other drivers in our communities. It is a stimulus to every automobile operator, whether he is behind the wheel of a truck or his own car, to realize that men who are in the thick of traffic, day in and out, can come through without so much as a dented fender to mar their records."

Commercial drivers throughout the nation are receiving the National Safety Council's award of bronze badges. The drivers' employers must certify their records to the Safety Council which is uniting commercial fleets all over the country for greater accident prevention.

W. H. Cameron, managing director of the National Safety Council, sent a message, which was read at the presentation of awards. It said:

"Congratulations to your 27 drivers for 522,580 accident-free miles. The National Safety Council is proud to bestow upon them the no-accident driver award medals for their records."

Men Interested In Beauty Course

Milady searches always for innovations to enhance her beauty and charm. Her latest wrinkle is having her initial monogramed on the index finger of her left hand, in a color which corresponds to her costume or accessories, local beauty experts say.

The new fad is being introduced locally by Miss Dee Griffith, internationally known beauty specialist, who began her unusual career in Pittsburgh as a victrola salesgirl 16 years ago. When the radio cooled public enthusiasm for victrola and records, Miss Griffith studied beauty culture in New York, Paris and Rome, she said.

ENROLLMENT GROWS

Eleven years ago, she opened her first beauty school in Pittsburgh. Her enrollment did not exceed 60 students. Today, more than 600 students are enrolled in her Pittsburgh school at 437 Penn avenue. In her Philadelphia school, established four years ago, more than 400 students are enrolled, she said. Girls are enrolled in the two schools from every state in the Union.

One Japanese girl who studied beauty culture in the Philadelphia school has gone back to Tokio to open her own shop there. A great many French girls, two German girls and one Spanish girl have studied American beauty methods at the Griffith schools and have returned to their native countries to open shops.

MEN TAKE COURSE

A surprisingly large number of men are studying beauty culture, Miss Griffith said. An ex-football star from Lafayette College is a recent graduate and the present male enrollment in the school is 22. A great many nurses are studying beauty courses to supplement their professional earnings in their spare time, she said.

Four years ago, Miss Griffith won a first prize medal for hair tinting in the Komol School of Beauty Culture in Paris. None of her students have ever failed to pass the State Board Examination of Beauty Operators which is required in 23 of the 48 states, she said.

PAINT INDUSTRY PICKUP SEEN

CLEVELAND, March 28.—After having suffered less shrinkage from depression than many other lines, the paint and varnish industry may be expected to feel the early impetus of any general revival because its products are used in both production and maintenance, says the Union Trust Company of Cleveland in a current survey.

The industry has been sustained through the depression years, it is pointed out, by a domestic demand for its products tracing directly to the tendency of the individual home owner, when his regular employment is slack, to put in a little of his money and some of his spare time in making improvements in his home.

In addition to such work as this, many artisans, unable to secure regular employment, have solicited small jobs wherever they could find them in order to keep going.

The aggregate of this slack time improvement, could the statistics be gathered, would probably run into surprising figures in the total value added to residence and other properties. In addition there are the sums saved the small property owners, who can compare to their own advantage the difference between having the work done in rush times and doing it or having it done in times of depression.

Orders for Lumber Exceed Production

WASHINGTON, March 28.—(AP.)—New orders for lumber were 20 per cent in excess of the cut during the week ended March 19.

Reports from leading mills to the National Lumber Manufacturers' Association indicated a cut of 116,515,000 feet during this period. Shipments from the mills were 26 per cent in excess of production.

The association reported the week's showing apparently indicated an increase in production as orders have for several weeks exceeded production by about 40 per cent.

France Exempts Electric Motors

WASHINGTON, March 28.—(AP.)—Electric motors and similar apparatus which otherwise would be subject to the import quotas on certain electrical equipment into France has been exempted under a new decree.

The measure, as reported by the Commerce Department, exempts from the quotas the commodities which are dutiable separately from and are incorporated into, or function with, appliances which are not themselves subject to quotas.

P. R. R. DIVIDEND TOTAL HUGE

WASHINGTON, March 28.—(AP.)—Officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad announce their carrier is the first to pay a total of $1,000,000,000 in cash dividends.

The total of $42,674,591 distributed to owners during 1931 swelled the amount paid on the road's stock since 1847 to $1,031,246,238, they said. The carrier, it was said, has maintained an unbroken dividend record since 1847, the longest among steam roads.

During this period the average rate of return has been at an annual rate of slightly more than 6 per cent, although the last quarter's disbursement was at the rate of 4 per cent. At that time it was said further cuts might be made, lacking an improvement in economic conditions.

Inland Steel Cash Position Strong

CHICAGO, March 28.—The statement of Inland Steel Company and subsidiaries as of December 31, 1931, shows total assets of $115,586,980, against $103,040,270 at the end of 1930, and total surplus $28,627,620, compared with $32,605,097. Current assets including $11,710,924 cash and marketable securities at market, were $28,636,847, and current liabilities were $5,508,437. At the close of 1930, cash and marketable securities amounted to $11,514,711, current assets to $30,087,550, and current liabilities $3,983,384.

FIRM DEVELOPS PLAN TO AID MERCHANTS

Independent Grocers Get Advantages Enjoyed by Chain Store Companies

What five men could do as individuals to constructively help hundreds of independent grocery merchants in the Pittsburgh district to successfully meet chain store competition might appear to be very little. But experience and vision proved an unbeatable combination in the hands of Morris Rom, president of the M. Rom & Sons, grocers, at 3901 Butler street.

With the aid of his four sons, George, Emory, Harry and Leonard, Morris Rom has succeeded in enabling more than 5,000 independent grocers in the tristate district successfully meet chain store competition during the last 15 years.

ONCE RETAILER

Forty years ago Morris Rom operated a small retail grocery store in the old Sixth Ward. There he learned the merchandising problems of the retailer. In the wholesale business he faced the other side of food distribution. With vision and understanding, he conceived a plan of business, simple in theory but vast in scope, to help independent merchants to survive.

The cash and carry principal is as old as merchandising and selling. It is by no means an innovation in retail business. But as a method of wholesale distribution, it is not widely used, according to George Rom, treasurer of the Rom Company. He said:

METHOD OUTLINED

"The secret of chain-store success, as everybody knows, is buying on a tremendous scale. That is why the independent merchant, buying small quantities from the wholesaler, cannot operate on the small margin of profit of the chain store in the competitive selling of nationally known goods. By having 29 distributing warehouses in cities of size throughout the tristate district, we give 5,000 independent grocers advantage of the combined buying power of this tremendous organization."

In this way, the cost of operating an expensive force of wholesale salesmen, delivery trucks and drivers, clerks and bookkeepers and other office overhead, is not added to the wholesale prices charged the small quantity retail buyer, he said. Rom Company has seven warehouses in the Pittsburgh metropolitan area. The total floor space necessary in the operation of the 29 warehouses is 125,000 square feet.

FIRM OCCUPIES NEW QUARTERS

Mrs. H. Piemme, of 927 Freeport road, Arnold, Pa., is richer today by one $150 washing machine because she has been saving the labels from Dawn-Glo washing fluid for more than three months. She was the first woman in the Pittsburgh district to collect 19 labels containing the right letters to form the words "Dawn-Glo washing fluid."

Negotiations recently completed to distribute the washing fluid product in nearly 2,500 stores throughout the United States have necessitated the company's moving from 7824 Penn avenue to larger quarters in the Yost Building, South Twefith and Bingham streets, South Side, on April 1, officials say.

American Cotton In Japan Higher

WASHINGTON, March 28.—(AP.)—Stocks of American cotton at Japanese ports amounting to 386,000 bales at the end of February were reported to the Commerce Department.

This was an increase of 134,000 bales over the stocks at the end of January, and an increase of 230,000 bales since February, 1931.

However, the stocks of other than American cotton amounted to 116,000 equivalent bales of 500 pounds at the end of February, showing a decline of 41,000 bales from stocks at the end of the previous month.

BUSINESS

Steel Mills Start on Second Quarter With Prospects Uncertain

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

STEEL MILLS WILL start the second quarter with production only slightly above the low point at the beginning of the year, with the effects of attempts to stabilize prices still uncertain, and with the future outlook obscure.

Production is only slightly above 25 per cent of capacity. The long-awaited Ford orders are believed to be not far away, but it is still a matter of doubt as to how fast material will be required for the new model. While Ford has announced elaborate production plans it is unlikely that he will carry operations far ahead of actual sales.

The belief is quite general that many prospective buyers of low-priced cars have been waiting to see the new Ford before placing orders. If this is true, the actual resumption of Ford production should be accompanied by increased sales and production of other cars in the same price field.

Attempts to Stabilize Prices Still Untested

THE STEEL INDUSTRY is making an honest effort to improve its price situation. Higher quotations have been named for many types of products but most of these new figures remain to be tested. It so frequently happens that a few recalcitrant producers can upset prices that the outcome of the present moves may be in doubt for some time to come.

At several times during the two and a half years of the depression, higher steel prices have been announced but the actual prices have continued to decline just the same.

If the steel trade is successful in establishing higher price levels, it will mark one of the first periods of declining business volume in which such a constructive move has been completed. Almost invariably in the past higher prices have been accompanied by rising demand.

Quarterly Reports to Be Unsatisfactory

With the operating results of only the final week of the first quarter still to be learned, there is no doubt about the fact that the earnings for the period will not show increases over the first quarter except in the cases of a few companies. Economy programs will be a factor in helping income, but these are unlikely to balance price weakness and the fact that production in the first quarter of this year was lower than in the fourth quarter of last year.

In spite of the gloomy picture presented by the industry at present, many steel men take an optimistic view toward the future and think that Ford orders and a resumption of railroad buying will start operations on an up trend within a few months.

FEW PANTHERS SURE OF GRID JOBS

SPRING FOOTBALL PRACTICE at Pitt brings to mind the fact that Coach Sutherland will have quite a task on his hands during the remainder of the drills as he looks over the numerous candidates and attempts to select the men to whom will be entrusted the contract of carrying the Panther attack and defense next fall through the most strenuous schedule in the history of the university. With West Virginia, Duquesne, Army, Ohio State, Notre Dame, Penn, Nebraska and Carnegie Tech to be faced on successive Saturdays, it will be no easy matter for the coach to shape an eleven capable of coping with such tough opposition.

Paul Reider

And the job is all the more difficult because things are in the most unsettled state that has existed at Pitt in a long time. The berths of only three players may be called safe, these three being Capt. Paul Reider and Fats Heller at the halfback posts, and Joe Tormey at center. Bob Hogan and Mike Sebastian are reasonably certain to be in the backfield, but nobody knows just how they will be placed. One plan is Hogan at quarter and Sebastian at fullback, but some think the able and versatile Sebastian may crowd Reider out of a halfback job and force the shifting of the captain to quarterback.

WITH THE ENTIRE line of 1931 graduated, the awarding of Ralph Daugherty's place at center to Tormey is the only thing assured. At six positions the race is wide open. Ted Daily and Muggsy Skladany, reserve ends last year, will find the competition offered by Harvey Rooker, sophomore kicking terminal, and Bobby Timmons, North Side youngster, all that they care to encounter.

There is another stubborn fight in prospect at the tackles. John Love and John Merredith, reserves at those positions in 1931, will not be able to do any loafing, with Frank Walton, returning 1930 veteran, and Paul Cuba battling alongside John Kopal and Bob Hoel for their jobs.

AT THE GUARDS, too, Francis Siegel and Tarciscio Onder will find that their lead, established by virtue of their experienc last season, means very little in the face of the class and promise displayed by the up-and-coming sophomores.

Among the latter are Kenny Ormiston, of Pittsburgh; Frank Kutz, of Wilkes-Barre and Charley Hartwig, of Wheeling. The last-named was on the varsity squad at the beginning of the 1931 sason, but an injury forced him to the sidelines before the opening game, and he did not don a uniform again until this spring.

THOUGH MAX CAREY says he is still undecided on the Brooklyn outfield combination, it's a pretty safe guess that the final arrangement will show Hack Wilson shifted to Babe Herman's place in right, Johnny Frederick in center and Lefty O'Doul in left. Though Carey won't admit that Frederick is certain to be a regular, the club has got to have a little speed somewhere in the outfield, and Johnny represents all there is in that branch of the Brooklyn roster, as O'Doul, Wilson and Ike Boone don't make any claims to fleetness.*

Buzz Arlett

NOT ONLY DID the long suspension of the draft rule keep Buzz Arlett in the minors until his best days were behind him, but when at last he did get a chance in the big show with the Phillies in 1931 it was at just the wrong time. They changed the ball and forced him right back to the smaller leagues.

At least, that's the way Buzz figures it. He thinks that if the rabbit pill had been kept in play for another year he would have stayed up, and he blames the lively sphere for his being shipped to Baltimore. Or even if he had been given his long-delayed major opportunity in the American League instead of in the National, he might have made the grade, he believes.

"I KNOW THAT I would have made at least 10 more home runs if the ball in the National League had been the one used in the American Lague and the American Association," Arlett says. "Probably I have a selfish reason, but I feel that the magnates are making a mistake in voting out the rabbit ball.

"Baseball enjoyed its greatest prosperity while Babe Ruth, Hack Wilson and others were banging the apple out of the lot. To me, a ringing clout out of the park has always been a heap more fun than a bunt, and the fans, if the turnstiles are to be believed, agreed with me."

ANOTHER BASKETBALL VETERAN who shares the opinion that the free throw ought to be scrapped is Attorney John B. Baker, Johnny to the floor fans who knew him as a scholastic, collegiate, semi-pro and pro player, and later as an official and coach. Baker agrees that it is absurd to continue conditions under which a game may be won by a free shot while the other team must stand idly by and watch it go in.*

THERE'S A DISPUTE on in the West as to where to place the credit, or the blame if you will, for the starting of night baseball. Friends of Lee Kiser, president of the Des Moines club, says he originated it three years ago, but exception is taken to this by Dr. F. S. Arnold, secretary of the Southern California Night Ball Association, who declares his organization introduced it at Arlington in 1925.

But baseball historians come to the front with evidence to show that both sides are wrong. Night baseball was played in Wilmington, Del., in 1896, with Ed Barrow, now business chief of the Yankees, managing one of the clubs. And in 1915 the arc light game was brought back by the Brooklyn Federal League club, but for one night only. Many years ago an Indian team played night ball in a circus fashion on a tour of the country, carrying its own canvas fence and gas-lighting plant.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE officials of the Pittsburgh baseball club that a new feature at Forbes Field his year will be the setting apart of Mondays and Fridays of each week in June, July and August as special days on which boys up to 12, inclusive, will be admitted free, struck a popular chord throughout the district.

Gene Venzke

Not only does it give the kids a break, but it is a move that will help the club and the sport in general here, as it means the creating and fostering of baseball interest at an age to make future fans and players of the youngsters. It is a neat gesture and a progressive and commendable step on the part of the new Pirate business management.

MOST SPEED EXPERTS will scoff at the idea that a mile may be run in four minutes, but according to Boyd Comstock, track coach of the Los Angeles A. C., it is not only possible, but probable. He thinks the time is not far distant when Gene Venzke will turn in that unheard-of mark. "Venzke is the one perfect runner of all time," says Comstock, who saw Gene do his 4:10 mile in the East. "He is capable of doing the mile in 4 minutes and 5 seconds right now, and I'll not be surprised to see him cover the distance in an even four minutes some time in the near future. When I say Venzke is the one perfect runner of all time, I mean just that, because there is nothing wrong with his form, and because he is relaxed, both physically and mentally, when he runs. He put out virtually nothing in doing four-ten. Wait until he turns on all his steam."*

LOCALS MEET ERIE QUINT TOMORROW

By JULIUS LEVIN

The eliminations for the state interscholastic basketball championship, already fraught with upsets on all battlefronts, has narrowed down to a four-team proposition as the contenders enter the final week of competition.

The sensational Fifth Avenue High School quintet, admitted to the P. I. A. A. playoffs only because it was the highest ranking member of the City League holding membership in the state organization, now looms as one of the foremost contenders for the championship despite the fact it finished third in the City League competition.

Chosen as the District VIII representative in the P. I. A. A. playoffs, Fifth Avenue was conceded little or no chance of passing the first round. However, the Uptown machine surprised its staunchest supporters by eliminating Huntingdon, champion of District VI, by a 34-27 score at Altoona.

UPSET BRADDOCK

Having emerged successfully from the first round engagement, Fifth Avenue was paired with Braddock, champion of the W. P. I. A. L. and representative of the District VII schools in the Pitt Stadium pavilion Saturday night and what the Briggs' passers did to the Hudson quintet was a revelation to the 2,000 fans who witnessed the contest.

Like in the Huntingdon contest, few, if any fans, gave the City Leaguers a chance against the W. P. I. A. L. champs. They changed their opinion after the close of the first period, when Fifth Avenue struck a winning pace and played the favorites off their feet.

The championship of the state, won last year by Scott High School, of North Braddock, will be up for settlement this week-end. The semi-finals will be run off tomorrow and Wednesday nights. Fifth Avenue invades Sharon tomorrow night to engage Erie Strong Vincent, District X champion, while Palmerton, District XI titleholder and conquerer of Steelton, favorite to win the championship prior to the opening of the eliminations, will clash with Old Forge in the Eastern Regional semi-final, on Wednesday night.

FINAL GAME SATURDAY

The winners of the two semi-final games will come together at State College next Saturday night to decide which of the two survivors will ascend the throne vacated by the Scott High passers.

The Fifth Avenue-Erie Strong Vincent game originally was carded for Wednesday, but the school authorities decided to give the players an extra day of rest before the final engagement and it was moved up by mutual consent.

The Erie Strong Vincent quintet is coached by Sam Kramer, former mentor at Braddock High School. The team has been going at a fast clip all season and looms as a real test for the Red and White passers of Pittsburgh. Regardless how Fifth Avenue fares in the contest, local fans have a right to feel proud over the achievements of the Uptowners, who have upset the dope by winning two P. I. A. A. contests.

Officials have agreed on two capable arbiters for tomorrow's contest. Paul Fitting was chosen as the Erie representative, while Yans Wallace will be the Pittsburgh official. According to present plans, the two officials will alternate, serving as referee one half and as umpire in the second half.

UPSETS MARK PLAY

Fifth's successful attack against Braddock proved only a continuation of the many upsets that have marked the eliminations among the state's scholastic title contenders. The recent W. P. I. A. L. series proved one upset after another as the favorites saw their hopes for the championships cast to the scrap pile by underdogs. Homestead, pre-tourney favorite, failed to get beyond the quarter finals; Charleroi, its vanquisher, bowed in the next round; New Castle lost to Braddock after hold-

Bat, Canzoneri Title Fight Is Arranged

NEW YORK, March 28.—Bat Battalino, former featherweight champion, has agreed to fight Tony Canzoneri, lightweight champion, 15 rounds for the title at Madison Square Garden in May, James J. Johnston, the Garden's fight manager, has announced.

Johnston said he would confer with Sammy Goldman, Canzoneri's manager, and said he was certain Canzoneri would accept.

The match was decided upon today at a conference between William F. Carey, president of the Garden; Johnston, and Pete Reilly, manager of Battalino. While the exact date has not been decided, Johnston said it probably would be May 9.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF LAST SATURDAY: THE MARRYING SPECIALIST—In 1865, Rainiilarivony, described as a man of great sagacity and ability, was prime minister and commander of the armed forces of Madagascar, a huge island in the Indian Ocean. In that year King Radama II was murdered and succeeded by his widow, Queen Rasoaherina, on the throne of the island. Raini, who already was married and the father of many children, promptly married the queen, adding the title of Prince Consort to the numerous dignities he was holding. Eventually the position of prime minister and royal consort must have become quite an obsession with him, for, after the death of the queen, he lost no time in marrying her successor, Queen Ranavalona II (1868). And again, when Ranavalona II died, in 1883, he promptly entered into matrimony with her successor, Queen Ranavalona III. The latter was deposed by the French and deported to Algiers in 1897, thus ending the independence of Madagascar. Raini, the perpetual Prince Consort, was born three years after the death of his mother's first husband. Throughout its independence, Madagascar was a matriarchy and its laws made the first husband of a woman the father of all children born to her, regardless of the time of his death and her remarriage.

TOMORROW: AN EAGLE CAN BE A CAPTIVE WHEN LIBERATED.

ARMY OFFICERS TO VIE HERE

The pistol shooting and golf championships of the Reserve Officers' Association of the United States and the National challenge polo contest of the association will be held during the national convention of the organization here April 24-29, Maj. C. B. Shaffer, chairman of the local convention committee, announced today.

Maj. Shaffer

National repute attaches to these polo and pistol events, the latter annually attracting the leading pistol marksmen of the country.

The polo challenge event will be between the 308th Cavalry team, headed by Col. George H. Cherrington, which has issued the national challenge and a leading team from among the more than 30 in the association. It will be played on the Pittsburgh Hunt field in Fox Chapel.

Wide participation is expected in the pistol events with each department of the association entering three teams, each reserve regiment three and each chapter two. The standing trophies, each of which must be won three times for permanent possession, will be contended for in the three classes and in the national individual championship.

Competitors will fire the regular Army qualification course dismounted, using only the target "L." Slow fire will be at 15 and 25 yards and the rapid fire at 15 yards, 11 seconds per score of five and 25 yards, 15 seconds per score of five.

SPORT VIGNETTES

That long overtime Stanley Cup game won by the New York Rangers over the Montreal Canadiens Saturday night, in which 59 minutes of "sudden death" play had to be engaged in to break a tie, may have been great stuff to some people, but it was just another incident in the long and colorful hockey career of Les Patrick, manager of the Rangers, who has had his team in the money in every playoff since he took hold with the reorganization of the National League in 1926 . . . A veteran of 19 years as a player, the gray-thatched pilot has many vivid memories of the thrilling sport . . . Why, way back in 1906, when his Wanderers captured the Stanley Cup from the Ottawa Senators, the first game of the series of two ended with his team trailing, 9 to 1 . . . At the start of the second game, the Senators scored again, and the series tally stood 10 to 1 . . . Then the Wanderers started and they smashed home nine goals to tie the score, and then Patrick piled through the entire opposition to score two more goals and win the series and undying fame in Canada, where they take their hockey, but can't let it alone.

Patrick has played on 11 teams in Stanley Cup competitions and has played every position, including the old one of rover in the days of seven-men teams . . . Another highlight came four years ago, when his star goalie, Chabot, was injured and the veteran Patrick donned the accoutrements and went into the nets and stopped the slaught of the Maroons to save the night . . . A player 19 years captain of eight big league teams and a manager of 21 years' experience—shucks, what is a game with three sudden death periods to such a grand and glorious campaigner? Why, this 59 minutes of sudden death play didn't even match the 68 minutes 52 seconds of overtime that featured a Stanley Cup game between the same two teams to set a record last year!

With the members of the Olympic swimming committee looking on, it is a sure bet that Johnny Schmieler, of Carrick, cinched a berth on the American team when he added two more national titles to his credit in the collegiate championships at Ann Arbor, Saturday night . . . He recently won two Big Ten Conference crowns . . . The Michigan team, which he represents, incidentally, annexed its fourth national crown in the last six years of competition, an enviable record in itself.

Speaking of swimmers, Miss Mae Cutnell, Whitaker lass, who will compete in the Olympic trials in New York in July under the colors of the Keystone A. C., really set two records when she smashed the 13-year-old A. M. A. record for the 150-yard backstroke in the Keystone pool last Friday night . . . She was clocked in 35 seconds for the first 50 yards, 1 minute 19 seconds against the old mark of 1 minute 21 seconds for the 100 yards, and clipped 11 seconds from the old mark of 2:18 for the full distance . . . Two of the timers caught her in 2:06 4-5, and the other two in 2:07 1-5, and the average gave her the new time . . .

WILBUR SHAW WINS RACE

LOS ANGELES, March 28 (AP).—Driving a fast, but consistent race, Wilbur Shaw, Indianapolis auto racer, won the 62½-mile feature event at the Legion Ascot Speedway yesterday.

His time was 48 minutes 15.10 seconds. Lester Spangler was second, Arvel Brummier, third, Stubby Stubblefield, fourth, and Jimmy Sharp, fifth. All except Shaw are from Los Angeles.

Adjoining Cells In Jail Given Former Tigers

LOS ANGELES, March 28 (AP).—Shortly after a man identified by police as Jerry Downs, onetime professional baseball player, was locked up in the city jail in connection with a $52,000 jewel robbery, police took into custody a man giving the name of Frank Stark, 38, who said he pitched for the Detroit Tigers in 1922.

Stark was arrested when found with several new pairs of shoes. He was booked for suspicion of theft of the shoes.

"You don't mean to tell me Jerry Downs is here?" Stark asked police when a newspaper reporter inquired what kind of a game was going on. "Why Jerry played second base for the Tigers, my team, before my time."

The two men, each of whom insisted he gave the right name and identified himself correctly as a former ball player, were given adjoining cells.

LOS ANGELES, March 28.—The recent slump which has hit the Pirates may have caused some consternation among loyal followers, but Manager Gibson has failed to become the least alarmed about it.

In fact, the Bucco boss is quite pleased with the manner in which his proteges have performed in the contests played with the New York Giants and Detroit Tigers.

The Giants and Tigers enjoyed perfect weather throughout their entire training period, and at the present time both teams are in mid-season form.

P. WANER GETS HOMER

The Buccos, on the other hand, enjoyed beautiful weather while at Paso Robles, but ran into a cold spell during their two weeks in San Francisco, and it has set them back considerably in their training.

Yesterday the Pirates lost their second in a row to Detroit, the final score being 10 to 8. The Tigers hammered Glenn Spencer for 15 safeties in the slugfest, rallying with three runs in the ninth. Paul Waner and Gehringer each swatted a homer.

The Pirates and Tigers meet today in the third and final game of their series. Bill Swift, recruit mound ace, will do the hurling for the Buccaneers.

For two weeks Manager Gibson was forced to allow his athletes only the lightest of workouts, and it has put them off their stride.

BUCS IN STILL DRILLS

Since arriving here, where the sun seems to be shining continually, Gibson has practically returned to the same grind which was so familiar at Paso Robles. He has had the squad out at Wrigley Field early in the morning and has drilled them right up to game-time.

The Pirate skipper is looking forward to the opening of the National League season at St. Louis and, whil still anxious to triumph in the games with the major league opponents, he is paying more attention to the daily workouts.

He is confident that the Bucs will throw off their present yoke and make it tough for their opponents in the game yet to be played on the exhibition tour.

Nick Altrock Baseball's Humorist Says:

GULFPORT, Miss., March 28.—I see the Phillies are going for inside stuff instead of walloping the ball this season. Well, no matter what they go in for, they still will be the Phillies.

The last six years you never saw any bunting in the Phillies' park except maybe on the Mayor's box. Those guys would rather try for homers than a sacrifice, even if they lammed Nick Altrock into a double play. Of course, trying for homers wasn't a bad idea, because the Phillies' park is the former site of a telephone booth.

But I can't imagine the Phils laying down bunts to win 1-0-0 games instead of ringing up 8-6 ketchup scores. And if they're going to improve their baserunning, too, they must have signed up Phar Lap for the season.

Only Tony Canzoneri, the champion, Tony Herrera, Battling Battalino and Sammy Fuller are ranked ahead of him. . . . Wesley Ramey, whom Sizzy meets in Detroit next Thursday night, is placed two pegs below the Donora whirlwind. . . . And the latest N. B. The Duquesne Junior High School team has just won its fourth consecutive W. P. I. A. L. Section II basketball championship and also beaten Charleroi and Glassport, champions of section I and III, for the league crown. The only team to defeat Duquesne in 16 starts during the season was McKeesport, and this setback was avenged in a return battle. Under Coach Lemmer, the Duquesne teams have won 85 games and lost only six in their last seven basketball campaigns. BUCKEYE GROUP ALTERS RULES

OXFORD, O., March 28 — (AP.)—Directors of the Buckeye Athletic Association, compiled 1932-33 basketball schedules, made drastic changes in rules governing gate receipts, took steps to curb roving athletes and sharply reduced fees of game officials at an annual meeting yesterday.

Wabash and DePauw, probationary members of the conference from Indiana, announced inabilities to finance Buckeye memberships. Both schools, however, scheduled a few basketball games. Dennison withheld a definite decision as to continuance in the association until after the 1932 football season.

FEES REDUCED

Marshall College, of Huntington, W. Va., booked a full program of games. Fees paid football officials were reduced $5 and a limit placed on traveling expenses. Salaries of basketball arbiters were reduced similarly and in most cases officials announced they will use only one official next season.

The rule of splitting gate receipts in all athletic contests was discarded and a flat guarantee to visiting teams agreed upon.

The directors ruled that if an athlete participates in any outside games during the school year it will automatically make him ineligible for intercollegiate competition during the following school year.

MARSHALL CARD SET

Decision of the two Indiana schools to drop out, Dennison's indecision and Marshall's entrance makes a six-school conference — Miami, Wittenberg, Wesleyan, Ohio, Cincinnati and Marshall. Marshall carded the following basketball games for next season:

FIFTH AVENUE IS CONTENDER

ing what appeared to be a winning advantage, Leetsdale was upset by Zelienople and Aliquippa fell before a surprising Mt. Lebanon quintet.

The P. I. A. A. playoffs also were marked by upsets. Fifth's triumph over Braddock was unexpected and Palmerton's clean-cut victory over Steelton tourney favorite by a 34-16 score proved a shock to close followers of the game. A brief description of the four survivors in the state playoffs follows:

Fifth Avenue High — Finished third in the City League race, Etchenley winning the title and Allegheny finishing second; defeated Huntingdon, District VI champion, 34-27, and Braddock, District VII titleholder, 25-18, in P. I. A. A. contests.

Erie Strong Vincent — Won the District X championship and defeated Dubois, District IX titleholder, 28-9, in P. I. A. A. playoff at Brookville.

Palmerton High — Won the Lehigh Valley championship and the District XI title, defeated West Chester, District I champion, 29-25, and Steelton, District III champion, 34-16, in P. I. A. A. games.

Old Forge High — Won District II championship and defeated Berwick, District IV champion, in P. I. A. A. game, drew bye to semi-final round.

CHILLYSAUCE

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Rogers Hornsby has not strung along with many wise men of baseball who have omitted the Pirates in their pennant calculations. In a radio speech made the other night in San Francisco, Hornsby went on record as stating that in his opinion five clubs would be in the thick of the scrap in the older league. The Cardinals, Cubs, Giants and Dodgers were the other four enumerated by the Rajah.

One of the best hitters baseball has produced, Hornsby is smart enough to know that George Gibson has a crackerjack pitching staff, provided Heinie Meine comes back into the fold. And the Boss Bruin realizes that in Pie Traynor, the Waner boys and Comorosky, Gibby has the nucleus for a sweet ball nine. Well, anyhow, it's comforting to know that some of the smart outsiders can see big things in the Pittsburgh roster.

Speaking of Heinie Meine, I wonder if Pirate President William E. Benswanger contemplates a meeting with the slab star as the Pirate prexy heads for Texas. Bill is slated to leave Pittsburgh Thursday and when one goes from Pittsburgh to the Lone Star commonwealth he or she generally travels by way of San Looey with a few hours' stopover privilege in the Missouri metropolis.

What could be more pleasant for player and employer than a tete-a-tete with the conversation swinging quite naturally into the big idea. The Pirates need Heinie and Meine needs the Pirates, so there is but one natural conclusion, and this would be reached quicker if the parts of the first part and parts of the second part sat in on tea for two—or home brew, if you like, for there's plenty of that in Sar Looey.

The Pirates are due to open the season at the Card coop two weeks from tomorrow. It is just about assured now that Heinie is out of the picture so far as duty in the jumpoff series is concerned.

"'Tis true, 'tis pity—pity 'tis, 'tis true."

The Champion Redbirds will sing some screeching Springtime notes when they definitely learn that Meinie will be among the missing when the campaign begins. The monarchs of the diamond would be happy if their neighbor from Luxemburg would remain away all summer. He caused them many anxious afternoons last summer. Heinie has a mental index of each of Gabby Street's stars and none knows this better than Frank Frisch and company.

Meantime Gibby is saving wood, and when he does say something his words have the true ring of baseball wisdom. Doubtless George is rejoicing over the clever antics of Floyd Vaughan, Tony Piet and a few other kids, yet any inward ecstacies he feels are couched with caution when he talks for publication. But you can count on one thing from the big Canuck—he will show you a scrappy, interesting team.

A. U., senior championships at the Keystone A. C. beginning Wednesday night and consuming the remainder of the week.

Jimmy Moore, local Negro middleweight boxer, became a proud father last night, when a son was born to Mrs. Moore in the Homeopathic Hospital. Jimmy says baby needs shoes—and how about some work from those matchmakers?

SHANNON TOPS CURRY, 4-1

By TOM BIRKS

In a game that went an extra period, the Castle Shannon Juniors successfully passed into the next round of the Referee's Charity Cup by defeating the Curry Juniors, 4 goals to 1, at South Park yesterday afternoon. Only a small crowd braved the heavy rain, but without a doubt it was one of the hardest fought games of the season.

Curry surprised Shannon by scoring in the first few minutes. Taking advantage of an opening in the Shannon defense, Spazes drove the sphere past Smith. However, this lead was not held long for J. Kevish evened matters by beating Brunetti, the Curry goalie.

The teams battled until time up, but no further scoring took place. Referee Corns ordered extra time. It must have been the staying powers of the Shannon aggregation for the game was put in ice when F. Kevish, Miscalla and J. Magers added further goals.

In other games in the cup competition, Cecil beat Cedar Grove, 5 goals to 3. Duquesne Republicans downed J. J. Veronas, 3-0, and Heidelberg pulled one out of the fire, nosing out Manown, 1 goal to 0.

The Bridgeville-Gallatin game provided the big upset, however, Gallatin defeating Bridgeville, 5 goals to 3. The Shannon lineup:

London meets Buffalo and Windsor battles Detroit in the inaugural games in the International Hockey League playoff series tomorrow night.

A round robin of six games is to be played by the fortunate contestants on a home-and-home basis. Total points will determine the champion.

Windsor's Bulldogs, defending their laurels, appear to have little chance of retaining them with London's strong Tecumseh's and Buffalo's Bisons disputing the honors. Detroit also is in the fight but, like the Bulldogs, appears to have only a mite to say in the matter.

JACKETS FIFTH

The regular season was brought to a close last night when Syracuse walloped Cleveland, 7 to 2, drooping the Indians finally to the cellar position. The Stars wound up their season sixth, and the Yellow Jackets of Pittsburgh fifth. The Canary Shirts managed to edge out the Stars by two points.

Buffalo was at the top of the standings at the close of the regularly scheduled race, with London, Windsor and Detroit trailing in that order.

MAROONS, FALCONS TIE

DETROIT, March 28 — (AP.)—The Montreal Maroons and the Detroit Falcons battled to a 1-1 tie here last night in their first match of the current National Hockey League playoff series. Several minor casualties were reported, among them Hooley Smith, Maroon forward, who had two stitches taken in his face when he was hit by a flying puck. A crowd of 12,216 saw the match, with gate receipts amounting to $12,982. The lineup:

The victory put the Rangers ahead in the series by one game and another win either tomorrow or Thursday will give them the first place title. The lineup:

Bedevilment by Washington Is Likely to Pass

By B. C. FORBES

WHO KILLED cock robin? Congress, shouts Wall street.

IN ONE WEEK Congress destroyed financial faith. It knocked stocks on the head. It unsettled bonds. Worse still, it hurt the market price of almost all commodities, including principal farm crops.

Mr. Forbes

Congress blasted the hopefulness which its earlier constructive action had begun to inspire, especially among bankers. The communistic income tax proposals amazed capitalists. Defeat of the sales tax incited apprehension over budget balancing. Bonus demands disturbed.

IT WAS LOGICAL that the irresponsible exhibition in Congress should flabbergast finance and the whole country. It was logical that all markets should suffer declines.

But, after all, what may be reasonably expected to happen?

THE GLASS BANK BILL, unanimously voted an unthinkable menace by bankers, is little likely to be law. It will be either shelved or smothered later.

Having demonstrated their power to defy their leaders, rebellious representatives are likely to realize on second thought that obstruction will court their own doom. The chances all are that ways and means will be adopted to balance the budget, probably by resorting largely to the Treasury's original recommendations.

Clamor for payment of two billion dollars more cash to ex-soldiers, now stirring uneasiness, is hardly likely to attain its objective in view of the nation's financial state.

THE OUTLOOK, therefore, is that this latest spasm of Congress-created nervousness will speedily subside.

DEVELOPMENTS in other directions still are mixed.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation is proving a tower of strength, a veritable "refuge in times of trouble." President Hoover has frankly proclaimed himself in favor of extending all assistance necessary to prevent further financial trouble among our railroads, banks or other interests eligible for governmental assistance.

Bank failures are fewer even than in normal times. Hoarded money is reappearing in volume. Interest rates tend downwards. Gold shipments are no longer a factor. The federal reserve is actively aiding easier money.

VERY QUIETLY there has been going on absorption of stocks by the public. Statistics reveal the astounding increase of approximately 50 per cent in stockholders of large corporations since the end of 1929, as brokers loans have fallen more than 90 per cent obviously buyers have been paying cash in full. This untrumpeted disclosure is extraordinarily significant.

After Friday brokers will not be permitted to lend stocks to bears without written permission from customers. Short selling will not cease, but it should be sharply curtailed. Fireworks are a possibility.

UNFORTUNATELY, EASTER trade disappointed expectations.

Clear evidence of business or industrial expansion is still lacking. Nor have commodity prices turned definitely upwards. Railway traffic, bank clearings, steel production, automobile sales, building operations continue to drag.

However, reports are beginning to come to hand of considerable additions to working forces here and there. April promises to bring distinctly helpful developments in the motor industry.

WASHINGTON TODAY has the fate of the nation—of us all—in its hands. It is inconceivable that reckless politicians will elect, or be permitted, to cause further bedevilment at this time when the supreme consideration of every citizen should be efforts to put to work the six millions still idle.

Family Reunion

THE BAGS were packed—the car was waiting. Once more the Hart family was scattering to distant points. It had been a wonderful family reunion.

"Let me hear from you!" Mrs. Hart urged as the three young people gathered in the hallway. They exchanged smiles and nodded to Joe, their spokesman.

"That we will, Mother," he declared. "We've fixed up a plan—a family reunion by telephone every Sunday night!"

Mrs. Hart gasped delightedly. "Every week?" she queried.

"Every week, without fail! Half past eight's the mystic hour when we'll all come home! It'll be as much fun for us as it will for you."

STOCK MARKET WEAKENS AND STEADIES

Share Declines Threaten To Reduce Values to New Bear Cycle Low Levels

NEW YORK, March 28.—(AP.)—The stock market slid slowly but stubbornly downward today, threatening to reduce the general level of share values to a new low level for the bear cycle.

The most encouraging aspect of the market was the small volume of selling, but buyers were kept on the sidelines by taxation uncertainties, leaving the market with little support. The list steadied somewhat after execution of some substantial selling orders at the opening, but began to slip again about midday. Early afternoon saw some fresh steadying of the list.

Among issues selling off a point or so to new lows were Southern Pacific, Santa Fe, Great Northern preferred, American Smelting, Anaconda, Du Pont, International Harvester, American Power and Light and Macy. Drug, Lambert, Wrigley and Hershey Chocolate declined 2 to 4 points to new bottoms. Miscellaneous issues losing a point or so included American Can, Consolidated Gas, American Tobacco B, Union Carbide and Allied Chemical. American Telephone and United States Steel attracted fair support after sagging about a point and the New York tractions comprised an isolated firm group, reflected further agitation for a 7-cent fare.

Wall street's attention largely converged upon Washington. Heaviness of the American dollar in the foreign exchange market was generally attributed to fears abroad that the federal budget would remain unbalanced, in view of defeat of the general manufacturers' sales tax and strong pressure from individual groups against special levies. Fears for the budget were also evident in selling of United States government bonds. The emphatic statement issued by Speaker Garner that the budget must be balanced, however, was regarded as reassuring.

Commission houses and investment advisory services were inclined to urge clients to leave stocks alone until the taxation outlook is clarified.

How much of the selling of the American dollar in the foreign exchange market was real selling, and how much was speculative, could not be determined.

Wall street was inclined to regard the stock market generally, now that it has again touched the bottom area of the bear market at which it has met firm resistance since December, as in a critical testing area. If the market is able to hold around current levels, its action will undoubtedly be regarded as highly reassuring.

GRAINS WAVER THEN RISE

CHICAGO, March 28.—Helped by fresh enlargement of France's wheat import quota, grain values advanced today after a wavering start. Initial weakness was in sympathy with downturns of securities. Opening unchanged to ⅜ lower, wheat afterward showed a rise all around. Corn started unchanged to ⅜ off and subsequently rallied.

Increase of the French allowance of foreign wheat permitted to millers was lifted to 40 per cent, against 35 per cent previously. Traders construed this action as likely to stimulate export demand and a similar interpretation was put upon advances in British exchange rates. The fact was also noted that North America's contributions to world shipments of wheat the last week were augmented, notwithstanding total world shipments showed curtailment.

Big Insull Units Cover Dividends

CHICAGO, March 28.—(AP.)—Samuel Insull, utility magnate, said in a statement issued last night that 1932 financing for three big operating companies which serve Chicago and vicinity would put no strain upon any of the companies. The corporations referred to were the Commonwealth Edison Company, the Peoples Gas Light & Coke Company and the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois. The statement said:

"For the first three months of the year, with business as it is, and with no improvement for the remainder of the year, the accounts of these companies indicate that they will all in 1932, earn the dividends which they have been in the habit of paying, and a substantial surplus besides."

DIVIDEND NEWS

Associated Oil Resumes.

Associated Oil Company, whose capital stock is 98 per cent owned by the Tide Water Associated Oil Company, declared a dividend of 25 cents per share, payable April 15 to record of April 8. In September last year, directors omitted dividends, the last previous payment having been 35 cents on June 30, 1931.

SALES TAX BAN SEEN AS SNAG TO RECOVERY

McAdoo Urges Restoration Of Purchasing Power; Ford Delay Rapped by Steel Man

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, March 28 — The attempted managed recovery through political action, centering around the reconstruction program, struck a major snag last week when the House of Representatives revolted and upset the tax plan.

Before the complete collapse at conference the reconstruction program were [illegible]

thus far [illegible] been made [illegible] tentative [illegible] in the [illegible] Corporation, Steagall [illegible] loans and [illegible] banks, [illegible] business and [illegible] prices [illegible] the currency [illegible] hopes.

In the [illegible] deal with [illegible] ers are seeking [illegible] consume [illegible] deed. The [illegible] has been handicapped [illegible] to advance economic [illegible] the waiting [illegible] the drift [illegible] future of [illegible] Ford Motor [illegible] to its new [illegible]

William [illegible] McAdoo was [illegible] time Secretary [illegible] Treasury and director general of the railroads who watched New York over the week-end. It was clear that he considered the present recuperation program as a step to draw in more purchasing power than any fundamental remedies.

McAdoo thinks [illegible] the statesmanlike procedure would be to attempt to rehabilitate purchasing power especially among the farmers, who have been prospering to prevailing low prices.

A leading factor in the granting of Treasury aid to the Allies, McAdoo told me:

"I am absolutely opposed to cancellation of war debts. It is not a question of whether they can afford to pay them. Of course they can, but the other nations cannot afford to cancel them. If they do, when the next great world crisis comes, and their very life is at stake no one will be willing to accept their promises."

In regard to the stall in the automobile trade resulting from changing Ford [illegible] a spokesman for steel interests in Cleveland writes:

"Ford certainly has got things all tied up in steel and parts, as all the other car makers are sitting back waiting to see what he has. I understand his showing will be in a few days."

Down to Business!

Council at Last Seems to Realize That the Way to Relieve Unemployment Is to Furnish Jobs

The declaration of John S. Herron, president of City Council, in favor of immediate construction of the downtown subway and improvement of the wharves is one of the most encouraging developments in Pittsburgh's campaign for the relief of the unemployment situation.

It indicates that Council has at last awakened to the realization that the way to put jobless men back to work is by furnishing jobs.

It will tend to dissipate the apprehension of those who have been concerned over the effect of the policy of distributing the taxpayers' money to the needy in the form of a dole.

It means, if Herron's proposals are adopted, that a multitude of destitute men are to receive help at no cost of self respect and that the taxpayers are to receive in exchange for their money something they have long desired and, in the case of the subway, have formally requested in an election.

It gives assurance that funds will be available for public works even if the bond issues to be submitted to the people in connection with the April primary are voted down.

It is good business, too, to construct these public works at a time when costs are abnormally low.

Objections can be raised to the scheme, of course. The $6,000,000 of authorized subway bonds will have to be redeemed by a tax on real estate. But it is better that real estate should be taxed for the construction of a subway than for the distribution of alms. Moreover, there would be no resort to taxation even to pay the interest on the subway bonds until a year after it has been completed and is in operation—that is, not for at least three years, for the State Constitution allows the interest charges to be taken for that long from the proceeds of the bond issue.

It is to be borne in mind, too, that the subway and the wharf improvements will increase downtown real estate values and help business.

The project, to be sure, offers no panacea, and will not provide immediate relief, but it is a step forward and a definite improvement on the vacillating uncertain policy that has until now marked the administration's course in dealing with the economic situation.

It is to be hoped that the county authorities will follow a course similar to that suggested by President Herron and, in adopting a program of public works for the relief of unemployment, will provide for large improvements of permanent value rather than a multitude of minor projects, embarked upon merely for the purpose of furnishing jobs.

The rail-river terminals and protective works advocated by the Flood Commission of Pittsburgh are of a kind that might well be taken up now. Under the Flood Commission's auspices a meeting of property owners and businessmen will be held in the auditorium of the Chamber of Commerce Wednesday afternoon to recommend a course of procedure. It is to be hoped that representatives of both the county and city governments will attend.

Until these various projects are under way, however, there must be no relaxation in the efforts that are being made to provide immediate relief.

The Harris "adopt-a-family" plan is of the first importance.

A conference to be held at once by business, welfare and political leaders at Harrisburg to devise a state-wide relief program is no less important.

Cutting School Taxes

Consolidation Offers a Way in Which Small Communities Can Reduce Educational Expenses.

Ambridge has just cut its school teachers' salaries 10 per cent. It is but one of a number of towns in the Pittsburgh District that have felt it to be necessary to reduce school expenses in order to lighten the taxpayers' burden.

It is regrettable that the salaries of school teachers, none too highly paid at best, should be reduced.

It is inexcusable that educational standards should be lowered.

Small communities can economize, without sacrifice of standards, by consolidating schools.

The little town of Shiremanstown in the Cumberland Valley has shown one way in which it can be done. The people of Shiremanstown found their school bill intolerably high. They accordingly asked the school directors of Mechanicsburg, two miles away, for permission to send Shiremanstown pupils of the seventh and eighth grades to the Mechanicsburg schools on a tuition basis. Shiremanstown offered to provide the transportation. The Mechanicsburg school board was glad of the opportunity to get the money to be paid for the Shiremanstown pupils' tuition, and the arrangement was made.

Shiremanstown has thus been enabled to reduce its school tax 4 mills. And its children receive instruction every bit as good as they could have obtained in their home town school.

With good roads and motor busses fewer schools are needed.

Consolidated schools offer advantages not to be found in small schools.

How to Live Cheaply

A Family Can Maintain Health on $5 Worth of Food a Week, But Those Who Can Afford It Should Spend More.

The Sun-Telegraph published a statement by Mrs. Ruth Fisher, nutritionist of the Public Health Nursing Association, showing how a family of five can live comfortably on $5 worth of food a week.

Mrs. Fisher furnished a detailed list of the foods that enter into such a diet, the amounts of each that are necessary to maintain health, and the prices at which they can be bought.

The list deserves the study of those who are forced to economize.

But families who are not forced to economize should not attempt to live on $5 a week.

Generous spending, if judicious, should be encouraged.

Good times will not come back until people return to the normal standard of living, and families in position to do so will help business by continuing to set a bountiful table.

"Helping" the Patient! -:- -:-

By Nelson Harding

A crash of glass, a bellowed threat!
The patient in an icy sweat,
With hair on end and bated breath
Is shocked and scared almost to death!

That startling and disturbing yelp
Will obviously never help
The nervous patient, nor restore
The sick man to good health once more.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

The Beautiful-and-Dumb

"Beautiful-but-dumb", is a sobriquet which once applied only to women.

We might have called a man a "boob" a "fathead," a "bore" or a "dumb brute"—but we never never thought of him as "beautiful."

* * *

Now, all that has changed with the arrival of the gigolo, and it has become apparent that there are actually women who prefer their men beautiful-but-dumb.

Many a bored and wealthy widow seems to want something of her own mental plane to play around with; and much prefers an ornamental, youthful cavalier to a Tired Business Man, who will want to sit and discuss the stock market with her all evening.

And a brainy, brilliant successful woman has always seemed to prefer to marry something she could "mother," rather than a mental giant who might try to boss and patronize her.

* * *

There is something soothing and restful about the beautiful-but-dumb. They don't jar your ears or get on your nerves or interrupt your train of thought.

When the Older Generation and the Younger Generation begin changing partners, they get all out of step. Nothing makes a woman look so old and absurd as a good-looking sheik, half her age, trailing after her with a bored look in his eyes and a "dutiful" expression.

And why is a rotund, triple-chinned man of 50 so pleased with himself when he has puffed around the dance-floor a few times with a wisp of a flapper, who winks at her boy friend over his shoulder.

What if he HAS got a "young heart?" That doesn't hide his bald spot and his third chin?

* * *

What a man with high blood-pressure, tired nerves and a high-powered job needs is not a kittenish little playmate who sleeps all day and wants to play around all night; but somebody who will rub his back, fix his bath, massage his scalp, find his glasses, and at the same time call him "Boysy." And what a tired middle-aged woman needs is somebody who will let her go to bed at 9 o'clock and get her beauty sleep, and won't shudder when he sees her in patent wavers, a chin-strap and a clay-pack.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 28.—Diary of a modern Pepys. Up feasting on a Kentucky black ham from Mrs. Sydney Carey in Lexington and abroad meeting the lustrous-eyed Mrs. Frank Craven and also the engaging Billie Dove, whom I used to ballyhoo for the old Midnight Frolics.

Comes a flood of epistolary rebukes and deservedly for "I" instead of "me" in this diary, which Lord help me, I scrivened in a careless moment. So to work with high new resolves. Later to Buff Cobb Brody's, meeting Margaret Case Morgan, Jack Harriman, Ina Hill, the Joe Mullins, Col. Hartfield and the George Ormsbys.

In the evening we to Katherine Brush's for dinner and Dick Berlin and Ann Watkins came, too. Nor have I ever seen such vaulted expanse of living room and stiffly but beautifully modern, too. Later talking to Katherine's successful young husband, Mr. Winan, and home, reading Ed Sullivan's grand brochure on Benedict Arnold.

On Manhattan's lower tip one comes suddenly upon a miniature slice of old world. A stone's throw from J. P. Morgan's is a Levantine quarter—a tumble of three and four-storied brick structures, reeking with odors of Oriental food shops. Wives in doorways offer a buxom tranquility and the men, Greeks, Armenians and Minor Asians, a penumbra of swarthy faces, fierce mustachios and brass ear rings.

* * *

Arthur Moss returned to New York with his bride, Eve Marvel, after 11 years self exile in Paris—spent mostly in the neighborhood of the Dome and Rotonde where the boulevard Raspail cuts through Montparnasse. Moss, dapper, thin mustached and ultra Bohemian, founded the Quill in Greenwich Village years ago. Accustomed to lingering over meals, he was bewildered by modern New York's hit-and-run manner and rigid mechanical life. He missed sleepy Moquin's, the dull-timbered Wurzburger tap room of Luchow's and other haunts, and departed in a few days with a stinging nostalgia for the sidewalk cafes and leisurely plod of a strangely self-contained nation.

Personal nomination for the Rialto's newest madcap — Lupe Velez.

Count Von Luckner, famed German sea raider, with one side of his evening coat a-drip with some 50 medals, continued a prize bloom at dinner parties this winter. He combines a routine of magic with feats of strength that served to detour talk from the usual poverty topic. He tears two telephone books in twain with a single wrench, doubles a half dollar between thumb and forefinger and such. Among tricky triumphs is to borrow a lady's ring, perform an evanishment, then ask the owner to select a flower from the table decorations. She finds the ring encircling it. Awk!

The count's favorite American hero is Buffalo Bill. As a boy he followed exploits of the plainsman. In early manhood he shipped on a cattleboat to America and headed for Denver, where Col. Cody had headquarters. Oddly, Cody was touring Europe and by further coincidence dining with Count Luckner's father near Cologne on the day the son reached Denver.

At a cocktail round-up: "Don't be afraid. It's pre-war."

"Yeah? China—Japanese?"

And Victor Moore tells of a gent brimming with speakeasy syrup, going home late and finding two escaped zebras from the Bronx Zoo in his parlor. He merely glanced at them and went on to bed. Couldn't fool him. No sir!

In radio studios the poor performer is "the earache."

A feature of gay, if any, cafes this spring is the monocled woman, invariably a mannish creature craving attention. One of the dirty stay-outs reports four at Reuben's the other dawn. One carried a swagger stick, tipped with crystal and puffed a midget pipe. No wonder the rioting has begun.

* * *

De Segurola, straddling a high one at the Met one night, heard the plink of his monocle as it slipped from its mooring. He substituted another with superb nonchalance without a quaver of his note. A gallery wag cried out: "Tomorrow night he wiggles his ears! And souvenirs for every kiddie."

LISTEN, WORLD -:-

By Elsie Robinson

A thing shocking to most of us has happened in Entywood. Mont. On March 12 a 14-year-old girl was buried there with full Communistic rites. A strange, dark scene—

The great hall of the Farmer-Labor temple draped in red and black. Within that bloody gloom the pallor of massed faces, deliberately tearless, grimly defiant. In the center the slim casket, guarded by children wearing the red insignia of the Young Pioneers, carrying red flags.

No sermon. No prayers. No sacred music reaching sobbingly to God for comfort in a desperate hour. Instead, a man's voice raised in fierce denunciation of our land and times, announcing triumphantly that the dead child was a Bolshevik. A shrill, jangling chorus of children's voices singing the "Internationale." Then, presently, the sound of clods falling, bluntly, on a coffin lid.

You recoil from the picture? You feel it's all wrong—a thing like that, in America? Many others feel that way, too. Recently a great mass-meeting against Communism was held in New York and the following six resolutions adopted:

"Re-establishment in the Department of Justice of a Bureau of Investigation with full authority to search out, scrutinize and keep under constant supervision the Communist organization in this country."

"Exclusion from the American markets of all goods made in Russia."

"Exclusion of the Communist and Workers' parties, as now constituted, from the right to function as political parties."

"Legislation making it a crime to advocate the subversion of the United States by force."

"Strengthening of immigration laws as applied to Communists."

"That's the stuff!" you say approvingly. "That's the way to treat them! We don't want people in this country who sneer at God and try to break down our American institutions and government."

We certainly don't.

But—neither can we keep such people out merely by spying on them, passing laws prohibiting them, punishing them. Even though we excluded every Bolshevik from America, we cannot stop Communism unless—what?

UNLESS WE CAN PROVE THAT WE HAVE SOMETHING BETTER THAN COMMUNISM.

The Russians did not go Communistic through sheer perversity. They overthrew the old government because the old government had failed them. They were hungry and homeless; they were neglected, exploited and abused under the old form of government. They could stand it no longer. When men see red, they go red. They thought Communism would save them from these evils. And so—Russia became Bolshevik.

And now we are fighting Communism in America.

But we cannot curb Communism merely by saying that we're the wisest and strongest and kindest nation on earth, and that all representatives of all other governments are so-and-so's.

WE MUST PROVE THAT THIS IS TRUE. WE MUST PROVE THAT AMERICA IS A BETTER, KINDER PLACE FOR WORKING PEOPLE THAN RUSSIA.

We can do that—

If we can prove that American government and American business give the working man a square deal; keep him from being hungry and homeless, neglected, exploited and abused—

If we can prove that homes are safe in America—

That God is honored in America and law respected—

Then we do not need to fear or fight Communism. For men do not want to change their government if they are prospering under that government.

Best Laid Plans of Mice and Men

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

It appears that administration strategists have lost all enthusiasm for that investigation into the activities of the bears of today. When the plan was broached, it carried the implication that but for these bears depressing the stock market out of sheer meanness, we should have prosperity today. It developed instantly, however, that Congress was not interested solely in the wickedness of the bears of today; that it has quite as much curiosity concerning the bulls and the artificial boosting of the market beyond all reason in 1927 to 1929 when the crash came.

Most of the victims of the market are those who were victims of the inflation. And Congress amended the administration plan so it could go into the market of 1927 to 1929 when the heavy damage was done. This naturally would mean going into all phases of it, including the government phase. And just there the enthusiasm of the strategists cooled. It now seems unlikely that we shall hear much more about the bears.

Too Bad for The Strategy

A Washington correspondent, speculating on the cooling of the enthusiasm, is prone to the theory that there was some politics in the attack on the bears. It was announced at the time that some few rich Democrats had been bearish on the market. There could not be very many of them, since most of the very rich are on the other side. The intent, according to this theorist, was to drag a few Democrats before the committee, a la the Seabury partisan investigation, and then convey the notion that these Democrats deliberately were holding back a prosperity, straining at the leash, for party purposes.

But it was discovered that even more rich Republicans were involved, and that was just too bad for the strategy.

But there was another reason for the cooling of the enthusiasm the administration forces do not want any investigation into the political connection with the market in the days of the G. O. P. bubble which wrought some havoc when it burst.

When the Bubble Burst

In a most interesting recent book, "The United States Since 1865," written by two competent historians, we find this reference to the panic of 1873:

"With considerable truth they maintained that the panic had been caused by the orgy of speculation; that their opponents (the administration) had done nothing to prevent, but, in fact, had encouraged."

This sounds like a sentence written yesterday about the conditions of today.

It is common knowledge that the administration, this and the preceding, politically profited enormously by the orgy of speculation which the man in the street foolishly interpreted as meaning prosperity. Naturally those in power, who had certainly not discouraged the ridiculous inflation, did not want to see the bubble burst in their hands. This led to the giving out of statements from time to time to persuade the public that there really was value behind the stocks in keeping with the prices.

And when the bubble burst other statements were given out which could not possibly prevent the consummation of the ruin, and therefore must be ascribed to an utter incapacity of those in power to grasp the meaning of crash.

Misleading and Falsified Statements

The market crash came on October 24, 1929.

The very next day the President issued this statement:

"The fundamental business of the country is on a sound and prosperous basis."

That meant the railroads, steel, agriculture, etc.—and none of these were on a sound or prosperous basis at the time.

On November 4, Secretary Lamont of the Department of Commerce made this remarkable statement:

"The only possible effect recent fluctuations in the stock market will have upon general business will be to curtail the buying power, especially of luxuries."

There was not an economist in the country who did not know at the time that the market crash would have far-reaching effects and speedily result in the conditions we have today.

On November 21, 1929, the President followed Lamont's lead with this:

"There is no reason why business should not be carried on as usual."

And so these strange, misleading and speedily falsified statements continued indefinitely; such as:

Secretary Davis, January 21, 1930:

"The present year should see us well on the way to complete recovery."

President Hoover, January 21, 1930:

"The tide of employment has changed in the right direction."

Senator Fess, February 8, 1930:

"In 30 days from now we will not know there was such a thing as a market crash."

President Hoover, May 1, 1930:

"We have now passed the worst."

These kind of statements, having no relation to realities, have continued until this year. They mean that our national leaders were either ignorant of the significance of conditions—which is bad; or that knowing, as business men know, the real significance, they sought to fool the people—which is worse.

The People Have Lost Faith

If these statements were given out sincerely because the nation's leaders in administration could not, and cannot, grasp the magnitude of the economic tragedy, they may have been ignorant of the inevitability of the tragedy that would put a period to the mad orgy of market speculation. It is more gracious to ascribe the encouragement given the speculation to ignorance than to indifference. But whatever the reason, the effect has been this:

The people have lost faith in the reassurances of the administration.

And that means they have lost faith in the nation's leadership.

And that means there must be a change in leadership before confidence can be restored.

The Curse of the Last 12 Years

And it means, too, a change in policies along economic lines. There can be no restoration of prosperity without a restoration of normal trade, and there can be no restoration of trade so long as the administration's Chinese barrier against trade with other nations is not lowered, and it will not be lowered as long as the present regime remains in power.

But it will not remain in power by raising a hue and cry against the bears on the market now, for that conjures up some things that need explaining in the days when even the government was acting as hawker for stocks at 200 that were not worth 65—and when the government, especially the Department of Commerce, knew they were not worth 65.

The curse of the last 12 years, as we have said before, has been market-minded statesmanship. Ten days after the market crash Dr. Klein, the economist of the regime, made this confession:

"We have come to see more clearly that the stock market is not the principal barometer of business."

It was not, but politicians convinced the people in 1928 it was, and even now, two years after the confession, the regime in Washington seems to feel that if stocks can somehow be boosted artificially, prosperity is back. It will not be back until trade and the purchasing power of the people—plain people—are restored.
